

Congress OKs Nixon compromise on bombing

New York Times Service

WASHINGTON, — President Nixon relayed assurances to Congress Friday that U.S. military activity in Cambodia would end by Aug. 15 and that he would seek congressional approval if American military action was needed after that date.

A senior administration official said that congressional acceptance of six more weeks of bombing would allow the U.S. to continue the "extremely delicate" negotiations now going on to end the fighting in Cambodia.

Earlier, Paul J. Hara, a State Department spokesman, insisted that "diplomatic irons were in the fire," but he refused to provide details.

Later, the senior administration official said that this was not "an administration flim-flam job" and that active contacts, involving several governments and political factions, were going ahead secretly.

The House of Representatives, after receiving word that the President for the first time would accept a deadline for halting the bombing in Cambodia, accepted the compromise and voted to delay until Aug. 15 a cutoff of funds for U.S. military activities in all of Indochina. The current bombing in Cambodia is the only such activity known to be still taking place.

Friday the Senate voted 63 to 26, to agree to the same Aug. 15 deadline for a cutoff of funds, despite complaints that it would sanction the continuation of the bombing in Cambodia for another six weeks. Earlier in the day the Senate Foreign Relations Committee had approved the compromise, 15 to 2.

The Senate agreed to attach the compromise language to a measure continuing funds so that the federal departments and agencies can operate through the first quarter of the new fiscal year starting Sunday, even though Congress has not approved their regular appropriations measure. The Senate then passed the spending measure, 73 to 16, and sent it back to the House.

In another development the State Department asserted that a "diplomatic effort" was under way to end the fighting in Cambodia and pleaded with Congress to allow at least six more weeks of bombing to help speed the settlement.

With the agreement on the Aug. 15 funds cutoff, Senate-House conferees dropped another provision cutting off the funds for the bombing from a separate bill extending the present $465 billion federal debt ceiling through Nov. 30.

However, the debt ceiling measure, was sent back to conference Friday by the House after some representatives complained about the cost of the increase.

Both houses plan to meet in an unusual session today to try to wind up their work before starting a week long Fourth of July recess.

Last Wednesday, Nixon vetoed a $3.3 billion supplemental appropriations bill containing a provision calling for an immediate cutoff of funds for the bombing in Cambodia and Laos, but the House fell 35 votes short when it tried to override the veto.

Thus, while Congress had a majority of votes in both houses to attach amendments cutting off funds for the bombing to a number of fiscal measures that the government needs to continue operating into the new fiscal year starting Sunday, it did not have the two-thirds vote necessary to override presidential vetoes of these measures.

The assurances that Nixon would for the first time accept an Aug. 15 deadline for a cutoff of funds for the bombing and would not veto bills specifying such a date was announced on the House floor by Rep. Gerald R. Ford of Michigan, the Republican minority leader.

Ford said he had been authorized by a White House spokesman, whom he did not identify, to tell the House that the President would accept an Aug. 15, deadline and that "if military action is required in Southeast Asia after Aug. 15, the President will ask congressional authorization and will abide by the decision that is made."

He added that the President would "definitely veto" any legislation that contains any restriction less than Aug. 15."

'Unneeded' sales tax hike begins Sunday

By BOB SCHMIDT
From Our State Bureau

SACRAMENTO — Californians Sunday will begin paying a one-cent sales tax increase virtually every state government official agrees is not needed.

As a result, the increase from five to six cents on the dollar will add an additional $50 million each month to a state treasury already fat with an $829 million surplus.

Legislation which would have delayed imposition of the increase for six months was sent to Gov. Reagan Friday, but the governor angrily and emphatically said he would veto the bill, SB425, because it contains a provision for an income tax rebate he says is unfair.

Legislative action on the measure occurred swiftly Friday after three days of jockeying. The Senate Wednesday, had approved a bill simply delaying imposition of the sales tax increase for six months. On Thursday, the Assembly amended it to extend the delay for one year.

The governor declared that the extension was unacceptable to him and the Senate delayed action on the bill until Friday, then refused to accept the change.

Late Thursday, the Assembly used another Senate bill to revive a tax

White House disputes 'hush money' Dean testimony challenged

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In another challenge of John W. Dean III's testimony, the White House said Friday that President Nixon told Dean March 21 a payment of $1 million in hush money "was blackmail, was wrong and would not work, and the truth would come out anyway."

Sam Dash, chief counsel of the Senate Watergate Committee, said at the televised Senate Watergate hearings that White House special counsel J. Fred Buzhardt had telephoned the committee staff with information sharply differing with Dean's testimony.

But Dean stuck to his testimony that Nixon told him March 13 a payment of $1 million to keep the silence of the original Watergate defendants would be "no problem" and that the President had said he conferred with top aides about executive clemency for the defendants.

threat of a blackmail nature to John Ehrlichman (then one of Nixon's top two aides) and confused it with an earlier meeting which occurred on March 13 when a million dollar conversation came up, and put them together some way."

"Now do you recall the President ever telling you it was wrong to pay this million dollars?" Dash asked.

"To the contrary," Dean said, "he said it would be no problem to raise the million dollars."

In other Watergate developments:

—DEAN ended his testimony before the committee after five days in the witness chair and the committee recessed until July 10 when former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell will testify.

—Dean testified that persons brought pressure on him to help stop tax audits that were being made on some of Nixon's friends, and Rosemary Wood, Nixon's private secretary, made repeated calls to him about one such unidentified case.

—Special prosecutor Archibald Cox relieved from duty principal assistant U.S. Atty. Earl J. Silbert and two colleagues, the federal prosecuting team that had handled the Watergate investigation for the past year.

—Former White House

special counsel Charles W. Colson said in a legal deposition that former presidential chief of staff H.R. Haldeman knew last January of meetings in 1972 at which political espionage and bugging of Democratic offices were planned. Haldeman said in a deposition a month ago that he did not know of the meetings until last March.

BEFORE the hearing adjourned, Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., the committee chairman, asked Dean, a slight, bespectacled 34-year-old, if he wished to make a final statement. Dean appeared under subpoena with the promise of immunity from prosecution for what he said.

Dean, whom Nixon fired last April 30, said he had sought to "provide the truth as I know it." Then he added:

"I attempted to end this cover-up initially by working within the White House, and when that didn't work, I took it upon myself to work from without, and I earnestly pray that this committee reaches the truth in this entire matter and reaches it as quickly as possible, because I think there is a terrible cloud over this government that must be removed so that we can have effective government."

In one of the tax audits, Dean said, "It was Rosemary Woods, who kept asking," adding, "I told Miss Woods to stay away as far as possible."

He said the case involved an individual who used the President's name and

Federal Reserve boosts interest to record high

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Reserve Board moved Friday to tighten up the nation's money supply further, boosting its interest rate charged to member banks to seven per cent, the highest level ever.

The board also increased its reserve requirements on all but the first $2 million to demand deposits at member banks by one-half of one percentage point.

Both moves were designed "to restrain continuing excessive expansion in money and credit," the board said in a statement.

The interest rate that the central bank charges member banks, known as the discount rate, was increased from 6.5 per cent to 7 per cent, effective Monday.

The 6.5 per cent rate had been the highest rate since May 1921. For a brief time in 1921, the New York federal reserve bank had a discount rate of seven per cent.

The board's move was aimed at cooling off the nation's fast-expanding economy and reducing inflationary pressures that had been building up.

The discount rate change is designed to discourage borrowing by banks from the Federal Reserve system. Usually, all other interest rates are scaled upward from the discount rate.

The two moves may help the Nixon administration's effort to control prices.

ACCORDING to Buzhardt, Dash said, Dean told Nixon in their March 21 conversation that Watergate defendant E. Howard Hunt Jr. was trying to blackmail the White House unless he was paid up to $1 million.

Dash read from notes he said were taken of the Buzhardt call:

"The President said, 'How could it be paid? What makes you think he would be satisfied with that?' the President stated, 'It was blackmail, that it was wrong, and that it would not work, that the truth would come out anyway.'"

Dean responded: "It appears to me what they (the White House) have done, is taken what I did raise on the 21st regarding Mr. Hunt's direct

SAN JOSE (UPI) — Computer trade secrets of the IBM Corp., worth millions of dollars, have been systematically stolen and sold to competing companies over the past 13 years, police disclosed Friday.

Seven persons were arrested and warrants were issued for four more. Dist. Atty. Louis Bergna said "many, many more" warrants would be issued as the investigation continues.

Search warrants were issued covering five competing firms in the computer industry.

"People have been pirating trade secrets from IBM and selling them to other people and other concerns, dating back to 1960," Bergna said.

The thefts so far uncovered dealt with IBM's "Merlin" data storage devices, which are used as an adjunct to many of its computers to store and retrieve data. The devices are manufactured at the company's plant in San Jose.

Bergna said it appeared that some of the persons involved in the industrial espionage against the huge computer firm were acting as individuals and that others were involved in a "conspiracy."

IBM security officials asked for the help of public law enforcement agencies in the case four months ago, Bergna said. Since then, an investigation has been conducted throughout the U.S.

Those arrested included an IBM engineer picked up at the company's big plant here when it opened Friday. Another was the vice president of a computer equipment producing company.

Search warrants covered plants of K and K Manufacturing, Inc., of Campbell, near San Jose; the Sigma Technology Co., Phoenix; Computer Disc Mastertape, Torrance; Forro Precision, Inc., Woodland Hills; and International Management Systems, Irvine.

Ramon Serrata, 46, an IBM engineer, was arrested at the San Jose plant.

He was charged with conspiracy, trade secret theft, accepting an inducement and receiving stolen property.

Others arrested on similar charges were Adolf Jarmann, 52, an employee of K and K Manufacturing; Phillip J. Steckel, 53, a former IBM employee; Phillip Kronzer, 39, vice president of K and K; David H. Bunch, 42, and Brunhilda Macneven, draftsman, and Thomas A. Finnegan, 27.

A warrant was issued for Wesley G. Powers, 50, president of the now defunct Memory Magnetics International Co., of Torrance. He is believed to be in Europe and was described by police as an associate of Steckel and Jarmann.

Also sought is Wolfgang

Arnold, 41, said to be the major stockholder of Computer Disc Mastertape, a firm which succeeded Memory Magnetics International and occupies the same plant.

Two draftsmen employed by Memory Magnetics, Thomas N. Rauscher, 44, and John Frank Suetz, 39, were also being sought.

IBM, the world's leading computer manufacturer, said the device known as the "Merlin" was a model 3330 direct access storage instrument widely used with IBM 370 computers.

A large number of computer equipment firms began manufacturing "peripheral" equipment that can be used with IBM computers during recent years.

House rejects hike in SS benefits

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House refused Friday night to agree to a compromise bill combining a 5.6 per cent Social Security benefit increase and extension of the national debt ceiling to avert a fiscal crisis.

The 190-185 vote sent the bill back to a conference with the Senate to try to work out an acceptable measure.

Republicans had warned that President Nixon would veto the measure because of the cost of the Social Security and other related benefits. House members also complained that the Senate had taken advantage of them by piling unrelated riders on the bill and then presenting it in a way that avoided separate votes on the issues.

The vote came on a technical motion that would have cleared the way for consideration of the package worked out in earlier Senate-House conferences. Its effect was to halt further consideration of the complex bill.

The measure included increases in other benefits for aged, blind and disabled and long-term unemployed.

The most urgent section was one that would have continued the $465 billion limit on government borrowing. Without an extension, it drops Saturday midnight to $400 billion. The Treasury will run out of operating funds in about a week without an extension.

The unexpected development further jeopardized Congress' already shaky plans to recess for a week beginning today.

Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., of the House Ways and Means Committee, told the House he would seek agreement on a new compromise as early as possible today.

Members discussed the possibility of producing a simple bill limited to the debt limit extension and the increase in Social Security cash benefits for some 30 million recipients, eliminating other liberalizing features.

The cash benefit increase would have been largely financed by a provision increasing Social Security payroll taxes on higher earnings next year.

The increase, applying to those earning more than $12,000, would have been a maximum of $35.10 a month. However, it was estimated that the additional taxes would finance no more than half the estimated $3.5 billion additional cost of the whole package.

One explosive provision of the bill an immediate cutoff of funds for military operations in Cambodia — already had been eliminated before it came to a vote.

U.S. clears POW who killed self, but widow presses suit

Combined News Services

While the pregnant widow of Sgt. Abel Larry Kavanaugh proceeded toward legal action against those who accused him of aiding the enemy in Vietnam, the Marine Corps Friday said the ex-POW's apparent suicide left him legally innocent of the turncoat charges.

The charges, filed by Air Force Col. Theodore Guy, will not appear on Kavanaugh's records, a Marine spokesman said in Washington.

"A man's innocent until proven guilty. Kavanaugh can't be brought to trial, so that's the end of it," the spokesman said. "As far as the law is concerned he is innocent."

Kavanaugh, 24, was found shot to death Wednesday at the home of his wife's stepfather in Commerce City, Colo., a suburb of Denver. Coroner's officials said it appeared to be a suicide, but an autopsy and other tests were ordered.

Meantime, another former prisoner of war said in Oceanside, Calif., that misconduct allegations against him were "outrageous" and blamed such accusations for the suicide of Kavanaugh. He added that if the charges continue more suicides may follow.

Marine Staff Sgt. Alfonso Riate, 28, said no POWs should be accused of misconduct while they were in North Vietnam prisons because they had suffered enough.

"I feel all prisoners of war ought to be left alone," Riate told a news conference in a motel near the Camp Pendleton Marine Base.

"All the American people should have some consideration and try to understand... I hope we have enough intelligence to prevent any more deaths."

"I blame Col. Guy and the Pentagon for his death," Mrs. Sandra Kavanaugh, 22, said Thursday. "Without their insistence on pursuing these fictitious charges, my husband would be here today."

Guy charged Kavanaugh and seven other enlisted men with collaborating with the enemy at a prison camp known as "Pendleton Gardens" near Hanoi. Kavanaugh was a POW for five years.

"He went to Vietnam and the North Vietnamese kept him alive for five years," Mrs. Kavanaugh said. "Then he came back to America and his own people killed him."

Privacy

Caroline Kennedy, 15-year-old daughter of the late President John F. Kennedy, is summering in this east Tennessee hill country north of Nashville. But no one will talk about her or even reveal the identity of the family she's staying with.

"We just aren't talking," explained Clairfield, Tenn. Postmistress Louise Adams. "Caroline wants privacy, wants to live like any other teenage girl. We're giving her that."

One source said the demand for privacy came from Caroline's mother, Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis, and added: "How could she possibly relax and live normally in our midst with a photographer hiding behind every bush and a reporter at every stop?"

Compensation

A federal appeals court in Cincinnati has ruled that a woman's undone work is worth $2.50 an hour.

It upheld a jury's award of $100,000 to the family of Dovie B. Blasky, 67, who was killed in a highway accident in 1970. She left her husband and nine children.

In arriving at its decision, the Circuit Court of Appeals affirmed the testimony of an expert witness from the Ohio Bureau of Employment Services that to employ an outsider to do a housewife's work would cost at least $2.50 an hour.

After his retirement in the 1940s, he took up forging from silver. His works gained notoriety and won him many top awards in California.

Use less energy, Nixon urges

Combined News Services

SAN CLEMENTE — President Nixon, urging development of a "conservation ethic," called on all Americans Friday to cut down their personal consumption of energy by five per cent in the next 12 months. He suggested in his energy conservation plan such things as driving cars slower and using less air conditioning and heating to save fuel and electricity. "The conservation of existing energy resources is not a proposal, it is a necessity," the President said in a special energy message to Congress. Nixon asked Congress to create a new Cabinet-level Department of Energy and National Resources and to launch a $10 billion program to develop energy sources. He also installed Colorado Gov. John Love in the White House to coordinate federal energy efforts and requested state governors to lower speed limits and airlines to cut back on their schedules to reduce gas consumption.

Violence mars N. Irish vote

BELFAST — A marathon election count Friday showed Northern Ireland sticking to tradition with most of the million Protestants and Roman Catholics voting along religious lines. Meanwhile, the Irish Republican Army struck with car bombs. A bomb-loaded car exploded at Belfast Airport, injuring at least eight people and shattering the British European Airways freight depot. Another bomb wrecked a car rental firm's office in Belfast. Heavy security surrounded the nine counting centers across the province. The election for a new provincial assembly, a British plan to bring peace after three years of religious warfare, guarantees proportional representation of Catholics, outnumbered 2-to-1 by Protestants.

CAIRO — Col. Moammar Khadafy says Egypt needs "a revolution... more democracy of thought, speech and action." It would be the late Gamal Abdel Nasser's wish, Khadafy claims, and he is just the man to fulfill it. He was suggesting that Egypt import Libya's two-month old "cultural revolution."

Elusive

A wealthy Chicago business executive held for $1.5 million ransom Friday eluded his kidnapers by a ruse, flagged down a passing policeman and led police on a gunfire-punctuated chase and capture of two suspects in Michigan City, Ind.

Authorities said Melvyn Zahn, 34, president of the nation's largest independent wholesale drug firm, tricked his abductors by asking to go to the bathroom, jumped from a first-floor window of the house where he was imprisoned, and hailed the patrolman.

The FBI said Zahn escaped as his millionaire philanthropist father, Louis, awaited further instructions from kidnapers who had demanded $1.5 million in ransom. No ransom was paid, the FBI said.

George Edward Ferris, 53, and William Robert Calhoun, 47, both of whom gave a Chicago address, were held on federal kidnap charges. The FBI in Chicago said both had criminal records and had served time in prison. Zahn had been missing and presumed kidnapped for more than 60 hours.

Scared off

Prosecutors are trying to make reporters their agents by use of subpoenas, an award-winning former editor said Friday in Tulsa, Okla.

Norman Isaacs, associate dean of journalism at Columbia University, said newspaper editors "have been scared off" by the fear of the use of subpoenas to force reporters to identify their news sources. He spoke at a meeting of the Eastern Oklahoma Chapter of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism society.

"There is nothing in the book that says an editor has to be smart — there should be something in the book that says he can't be a coward," Isaacs said.

Kahane

Rabbi Meir Kahane, leader of the militant Jewish Defense League, was indicted in Jerusalem Friday for attempted conspiracy to murder foreign officials in the United States.

Neither the names nor nationalities of the intended victims were given in the charge sheet. However, Kahane said in court that the case was connected with plans to disrupt the recent American visit of Leonid Brezhnev, the Soviet Communist Party leader.

The indictment said Kahane sent four letters and a cable to the U.S. between May 24 and June 12 in which he attempted to conspire with the addressees and others to commit felonies, including murder, and abduction of foreign officials, bombing and shooting at foreign embassy buildings and setting fire to buildings in which "American companies conducted domestic and foreign economic activities."

Alien move

Must an illegal alien go back to his country and get a passport and visa before he can get a U.S. residency permit? If he marries an American citizen would it help him to stay here? M. L. B., Long Beach.

WATCH OUT FOR SUNDAY DRIVERS WHO STARTED OUT SATURDAY NIGHT

A provision in the law allows a U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service district director, at his discretion, to adjust the status of an illegal alien to let him remain here if the alien was inspected and admitted to this country by a port official and if a visa number is available for him, according to Joseph Sureck, acting director of the Immigration and Naturalization Service in Los Angeles. The provision doesn't apply to an alien who slipped in without a port inspection or who is a native of any Western Hemisphere country or certain adjacent islands, he said. If an illegal alien marries an American citizen "he has a pretty good chance of staying," Sureck said. "Marriage to a U.S. citizen does afford an alien spouse certain benefits under the law. It places him in a different category, that of immediate relative, and a visa and work permit aren't necessary," he said. Natives of Western Hemisphere countries have been excluded because Congress felt it wouldn't be a great hardship for them to return to Canada or Mexico to await a visa, Sureck explained. A bill is pending in Congress to eliminate this exclusion. You can phone the immigration office at 688-2774 for further information. It will not be necessary to tell them your name.

If you will have your school fill out and send VA form 1999, a certificate of enrollment, to the VA, you will get your money. A VA spokesman said the only thing holding up your checks is that form. The form your school sent earlier was the wrong one. He said they had written you for the needed information but you apparently didn't get the letter since it was mailed to your old address.

That's not the ticket

On May 13, I went to the $50 window at Hollywood Park. I asked for two tickets on No. 8 and the ticket seller gave me two for No. 9. Before I could say anything I was pushed aside. When I got the seller's attention he said the only thing he could do was to try to resell them for me but he was unable to do so because it was too close to post time. The No. 8 horse won. I filed a claim and was told I would hear from them but I've heard nothing. Can you find out how my claim was decided? Mrs. M. M. J., Norwalk.

Your "claim" was filed only as a memo report of the incident for the mutual department's records and "we assumed she had been advised that nothing could be done," said George Haines, mutual department manager. The ticket seller told Haines you left the window and didn't come back until eight or nine minutes later. The seller said he had no way of knowing if he or you made the mistake but "he didn't want to pay for her mistake," Haines reported. When a ticket seller is found to have made an error, he must pay for it out of his pocket or resell the ticket, Haines said. "We deplore the incident and wish we had better evidence so we could know who made the mistake."

Old dispute

I have been denied my Social Security pension because of a dispute over my age. According to the Social Security Administration I was born in 1915 and am too young to qualify for my pension. My records — my army discharge papers and a delayed birth certificate — show I was born in 1910. Can you help me straighten this out so I can draw my pension? On the advice of the clerk at the Social Security office I quit my job and I'm too old to hunt for another. C. W., Long Beach.

You will have to file a request with the Social Security office to have your claim reconsidered by a new board of adjudicators but your chances appear slim. According to a Social Security spokesman, the problem is you've used two different birth dates and "generally we rely on the oldest piece of evidence in determining which birth date is correct." In your case, the oldest documentation is a 1920 census report which listed your age then as under 5-years-old. In addition, other records collected by the department, such as the county's school records, list 1910 as the date of your sister's birth, not yours, she said. You will have to produce some stronger documentation, such as church records or an original birth certificate, she said. She added she's "never heard of any Social Security employee telling anyone to quit his job. We wouldn't dare take on that type of advisory role."

Judge sets 'pot party' for court

Evidence against a San Pedro welder accused of cultivating 309 marijuana shrubs in a secret backyard garden will be reviewed July 10 at a preliminary hearing in Municipal Court at San Pedro.

Judge Walter S. Binns set the hearing date Friday when the defendant, William J. Pinney, 23, of 813 Milaflores Ave., was arraigned on the felony charge. Binns permitted him to remain at liberty on $1,000 bail.

Youth authority inmate held in spinster killing

OAKLAND (UPI) — A California Youth Authority inmate was held Friday on suspicion of killing an elderly crippled spinster and setting her home afire in a burglary.

Christopher Ormes, 17, Alameda, was lodged in the maximum-security section of Alameda County Juvenile Hall on suspicion of murder in Thursday's slaying of Miss Adelina Johnston in her East Oakland home.

Police said they have recovered a 5-inch hunting knife used to stab

Miss Johnston twice in the chest and once in the upper arm.

She was found dead in her bed with the mattress afire and another blazing in the living room of her modest home.

Ormes was furloughed from a Stockton CYA institution on June 17.

Barroom killer gets life term

Clarence "Chuck" Davy, 39, of San Pedro, who was convicted of killing one man and injuring two others in a wild barroom shooting spree last March, Friday was sentenced to life in prison.

Davy, of 529 1/2 19th St., was arrested after he slipped in the back door of the Tiki Girl bar in San Pedro March 11 and opened fire on unsuspecting patrons.

Killed instantly was Raymond Charles Armijo, 25, of 23727 Gulf Ave., Carson, the father of six children.

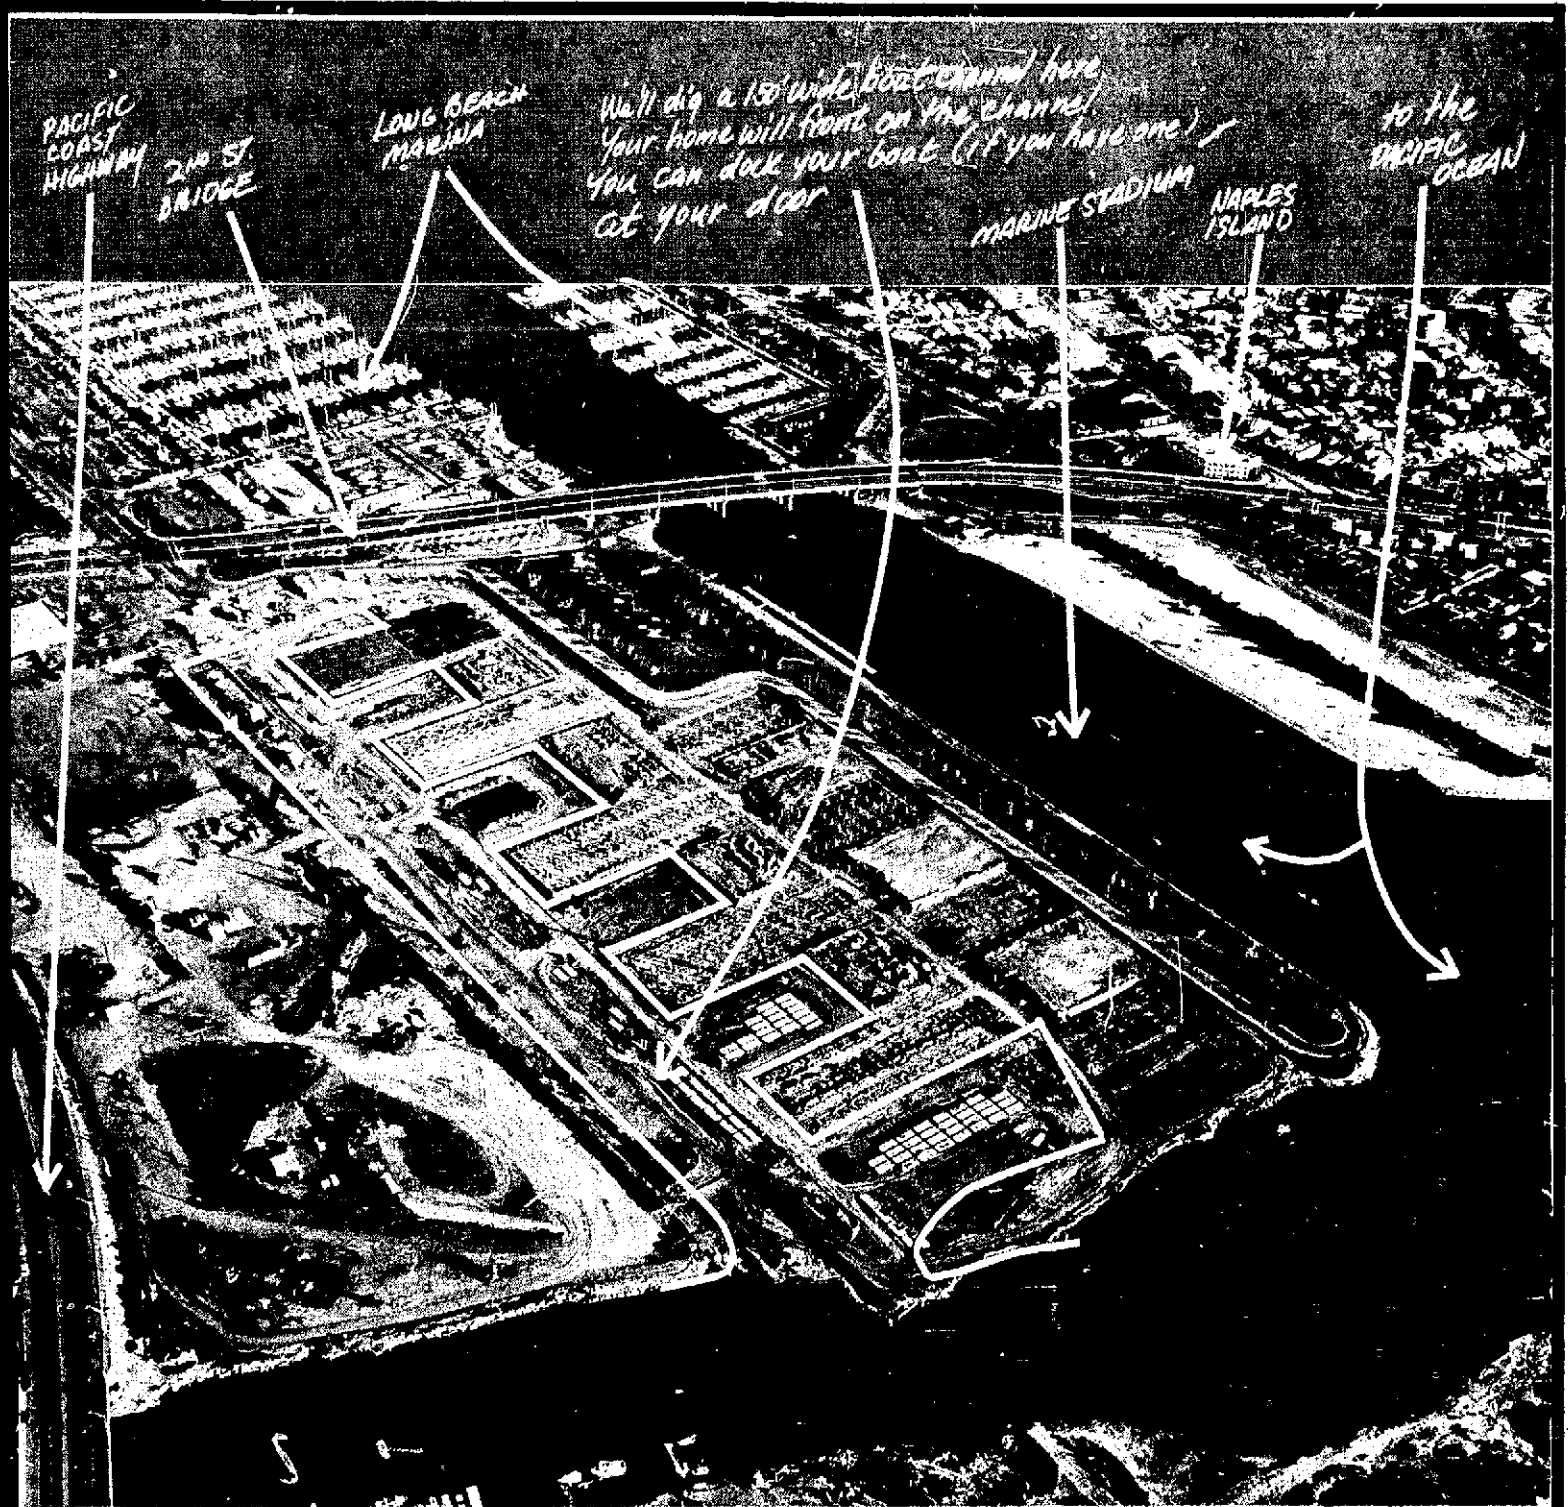

Wounded in the shooting were James "Mouse" Richey, 24, of 2909 Cabrillo Ave., San Pedro, and Gary Holt, 24, of Olympia, Wash.

Davy was convicted by Long Beach Superior Court Judge John A. Arguelles of second-degree murder in the Armijo death, and of assault with a deadly weapon in the shooting of Richey and Holt.

The defendant had sought exoneration during his trial on grounds of diminished mental capacity. He suffers from a rare degenerative disease of the nervous system called Huntington's Chorea.

A psychiatrist testified that Davy was incapable of premeditating and deliberately planning the shootings.

Other witnesses testified that the night before the shootings, Davy had been beaten up by patrons at the Tiki Girl. The victims of Davy's assault were not involved in the beating, the witnesses said.

SKYLAB CREW of Charles "Pete" Conrad, Paul Weitz, and Joe Kerwin brief newsmen on their 28-day mission in space. Their journey established new records for space travel for mankind.

—UPI

Astronauts predict next Skylab shot 'no strain'

HOUSTON (UPI) — The Skylab 1 astronauts said Friday they quickly readapted to earth's gravity after their world record 28-day flight, but a bobbing command ship and a "chug-a-lugged" cherry drink made rookie spaceman Joseph P. Kerwin sea sick.

Kerwin, a Navy pilot and the first U.S. space doctor, said that after downing the soft drink, he "got that awful feeling the world was about to swallow me up. It was no worse than a hangover, though."

Commander Charles "Pete" Conrad said stories from previous space fliers "psyched out" Kerwin as they and Paul J. Weitz waited in the Apollo command ship to be plucked from the Pacific Ocean by the recovery ship.

AMERICA'S first space station crew, in their first news conference since splashdown, said they left Skylab in good shape and it will be no strain for the next two teams of astronauts to spend 56 days each in orbit.

The Skylab 2 crew is scheduled to be launched July 28. An official said Friday the Skylab 3 astronauts may launch within eight days after the Sept. 22 splashdown of Skylab 2. Original plans called for a month-long break between the last two flights.

"That's one of the options being looked at, but not the only one," said Marlowe Cassetti of the Mission Planning and Analysis Division at the Johnson Space Center. He said the orbiting workshop is easier to control with pilots aboard than just with radio commands.

Conrad said reports of their dizziness and readjustment problems after splashdown were blown out of proportion and misinterpreted.

"All of us were surprised we were in as good shape as we were," Conrad said. "Joe just got sandbagged out there. That command module was really bobbing. Joe turned green for no reason other than he was sea sick."

THE VETERAN of four spaceflights said the feelings of vertigo and dizziness the crew experienced "tells me we had 28 days of not having gravity on our systems and it takes some time to adjust."

Conrad said he recommended that the Skylab 2 crew — Alan L. Bean, Owen K. Garriott and Jack R. Lousma — should exercise a lot more than the first crew so the readaptation is not as difficult.

Kerwin said living in space is easy.

"It was a continuous and pleasant surprise to me to find out how easy it was to live in zero-G (gravity) and how good you feel," Kerwin said. "It was about the sixth or seventh day that I got up in the morning and said to myself, 'Golly, I really feel great.'"

He said there are physical changes in returning from four weeks in weightlessness, "and we paid the price for it." However, Kerwin said by Sunday all three crewmen were able to do a normal day's work.

Kerwin said he didn't understand everything about the changes and it would be "unrealistic" to try to evaluate them until all the data is analyzed.

Kerwin said he saw no medical reason man can't spend years traveling to other planets. He said the pilots on such a long flight would need a "more normal sociological environment."

"Like girls," Weitz quipped.

Nationwide downward trend

Crime down in L.B., FBI says

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The number of major crimes fell one per cent nationwide during the first quarter of 1973, but serious crime continued to rise in suburban and rural areas, FBI uniform crime reports revealed Friday.

The reports indicated that among the nation's 100 largest cities, 88 — including Long Beach, Los Angeles and Anaheim — recorded technical decreases in crime from the same three-month period last year.

Although the decrease was down one per cent from the last quarter of 1972 it was three per cent lower than the first quarter of last year, based on statistics reported by local, country and state law enforcement agencies.

The drop was caused at least in part by a change in the method of compiling this year's figures, which included all larceny and theft and did not eliminate petty larceny crimes amounting to less than $50.

ATTY. GEN. Elliot L. Richardson said the crime reports were changed to reflect the rapid rise in inflation which he said had caused an unacceptable bias in the statistics.

Many states, he said, have changed the dollar value between felony and misdemeanor larceny by removing value from the larceny category. The new uniform crime reports were designed to eliminate the inflation bias and improve the overall quality of larceny-theft counts, Richardson said.

Larceny-theft is considered a crime of opportunity, and the value of property is usually incidental to the crime itself.

Richardson also said the volume of serious crime would have actually been one per cent higher for the same three-month period if the old larceny category had continued to have been used.

VIOLENT crime, murder, forcible rape, robbery, and aggravated assault increased six per cent this year compared to a two per cent increase in January-March 1972.

Property crimes, burglary, larceny-theft and auto theft, fell two per cent compared to a three per cent decrease during the same period a year ago.

Aggravated assault rose nine per cent, forcible rape seven per cent, murder six per cent, and robbery four per cent.

Psychiatric tests set in kidnaping

A Long Beach Superior Court judge Friday ordered psychiatric examinations for three men accused of conspiracy, kidnap, robbery and assault in connection with an attack on an 18-year-old sailor last May 7.

The sailor, David Walter Simoes, is paralyzed below the waist as a result of gunshot wounds in the head and spine. Police said he was beaten and robbed in a Long Beach hotel room before his assailants shot him and left him for dead in a field near an abandoned Signal Hill oil well.

Friday, Judge D. Sterry Fagan ordered the psychiatric tests for defendants Robert Eugene "Mumbles" Bates, 21, of 412 Orange Ave.; Gregory Randolph "Mexican" Galaz, 18, of 348 Janice St.; and Robert Eugene "Crazy Bob" Goacher, 28, of 1185 Olive Ave. They have pleaded innocent to all charges.

All three are being held without bail in county jail. The judge ordered the psychiatric examinations completed prior to the defendants' scheduled trial date, Aug. 9.

Simoes, who was assigned to the USS Chicago, is convalescing at a Boston Veterans Administration Hospital. He is from Massachusetts.

glary increased two per cent, larceny-theft declined four per cent and auto theft was down one per cent.

Cities with 100,000 or more inhabitants reported a four per cent decrease in serious crime, while suburban police agencies reported a five per cent increase, and rural areas a six per cent jump.

crease in crime during the period included Akron, Ohio, 9 per cent; Albany, N.Y., 17; Albuquerque, N.M., 7.9; Amarillo, Tex., 6.6; Anaheim, Calif., 17.9; Austin, Tex., 10.4; Baltimore, Md., 14; Buffalo, N.Y., 12.8; Cincinnati, 13.3; Cleveland, 19.4; Columbus, 3.9; Dallas, 7; Denver, 6.4;

To help in school aid

Rights rule easing urged

WASHINGTON (UPI) — HEW Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger Friday ordered a relaxation of civil rights requirements to enable at least five big city school systems to qualify for special federal school funds by mid-August.

The cities — Los Angeles, Baltimore, Chicago, Detroit and Oklahoma City — previously were denied funds because of faculty assignments that did not meet the current requirements which Weinberger wants revised.

"They are not in compliance under the regulation that is going to be rewritten," said a spokesman for the U.S. Office of Education.

In a statement issued by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, Weinberger said he wanted the rules rewritten "in order to provide more realistic standards for faculty assignments in large school districts."

He said the new rules would "give less weight to mechanistic numerical ratios and more to promising programs for dealing with the problems of desegregating districts."

Because these five cities and several others had not qualified for funds during the current fiscal year which ends today, some $25 million in emergency school desegregation aid will revert to the Treasury, an HEW spokesman said. The unspent money is part of a grant's package of over $200 million to help schools desegregate.

"The chief difficulty some large city school districts have had in meeting the eligibility requirements as set forth in the original regulations was in the assignment of faculty members," HEW said. Basically the current regulation calls for the assignment of teachers without respect to race.

Secretary Weinberger's (verbal) directive was to revise the regulations to permit a more flexible remedy for faculty assignment problems so that programs that the Office of Education certifies will make significant progress toward desegregation can be funded."

Ex-bookie kingpin Gross, brother charged in attack

Onetime East Coast bookmaking kingpin Harry Gross, 58, and his brother Jack, 46, were charged with assault with a deadly weapon and assault with force likely to produce great bodily injury Friday in a complaint filed by the Long Beach district attorney's office.

They are accused of a March 9 attack on Peter Racich, of 230 Termino Ave., a truck driver and former security officer. The alleged assault occurred in the Ports of Argo Restaurant, 5199 E. Pacific Coast Highway.

The brothers, who were arrested Thursday night by Long Beach police, are free on $1,000 habeas corpus bonds that require them to appear before Municipal Court Judge Thomas Zeiger for arraignment Thursday at 2 p.m.

Dep. Dist. Atty. Nikola M. Mikulich, who issued the complaints, said Racich was beaten with a coffee pot and fists and scalding coffee was poured over his face and neck in an attack that was apparently "motivated by revenge."

Mikulich said Racich had reported Jack Gross was stealing money from the cash register at the Edgewater Inn, now the Edgewater Hyatt House, in 1965 when he and the suspect were employed there. Gross as a bar manager and Racich as a security officer.

The arrest of Harry Gross is the latest in a series of troubles that began in 1951 when his $20-million-a-year bookmaking empire collapsed. He testified in a subsequent grand jury hearing that he had been paying $19,000 a month to members of the New York Police Department for protection.

Long Beach police arrested him on the assault charges at his apartment at 2444 E. Fifth St., a building where Racich formerly lived. Officers said they were previously unable to locate him since the assault.

Jack Gross, of Fountain Valley, was arrested at police headquarters when he came to bail out Harry.

Last Nov. 4, Harry was arrested in a massive Southland bookmaking crackdown, and officials charged that he was a major cog in a ring that grossed an estimated $2 million a month.

Fuel shortage eases as food crisis mounts

United Press International

Householders this summer will probably have enough gasoline in their cars to get to the supermarket but there may not be much to buy when they get there.

Reports Friday indicate a greater flow of fuel for motorists in the upcoming months. This good news dimmed considerably, however, by reports of drastic cuts in poultry flocks and the production of other foodstuffs.

Part of the blame was attributed to the current price freeze which farm bloc congressmen say isn't flexible enough to allow some increases in food prices.

Rep. Abraham Kazen, D-Tex., said poultrymen are being squeezed between fixed selling prices and high feed prices. He said there will be shortages of eggs and chicken in a few months unless the freeze is lifted at once.

"IT MAY not be welcome news to consumers that they may have to pay more for some foods, but if the choice is between slight increases in prices or food famines, I think I know what people would prefer," he said.

The production of other food products, such as milk, hogs, flour and some fruits were decreasing, apparently as a result of the price ceilings. Indications were that the shortages would cause prices to skyrocket once the 60-day freeze is over.

In Madison, Wis., the Oscar Mayer Company said it has cut back on some meat production and has laid off 51 area workmen since the price freeze went into effect. The firm cited continued increases in the cost of livestock and raw materials and an inability to increase prices in order to recover the higher costs.

In Washington legislators told a House agriculture subcommittee that the administration's cutback on livestock feed exports — soybeans and cottonseed — may ease pressure on feed costs but would probably not be enough to reverse the liquidation of poultry flocks.

THE WELCOME news about increases gasoline supplies came from four major producers who said deliveries would be increased to wholesalers and retailers.

A spokesman for Texaco said the company has announced it would increase its allotments of gasoline to its customers for the remainder of the month of June and for the entire month of July 1973.

Gulf advised UPI it was still allocating nationally but has been able to increase its supplies to some extent due to a variety of factors.

THE GULF spokesman said "we are maximizing gasoline production in all our refineries, we are receiving increased crude imports, we have lowered the octane rating of our regular and premium grades of gas ... and we feel there is a lessening in the rate of gasoline consumption."

Exxon said there would be increased allotments but "supplies will continue to be tight."

Shell also said it was increasing its July allotments over that of last July by about 7 per cent.

But food — the dwindling supply and the high prices — unquestionably was the householders main concern.

Penn Central begs massive U.S. help

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Penn Central, the railroad giant in the throes of bankruptcy proceedings, said Friday that without massive government help by October all its trains will stop "before the end of the year."

Railroad trustees have tried unsuccessfully for three years to reorganize the railroad which runs on 20,000 miles of track in 16 states and two Canadian provinces.

The trustees said they would prefer Congress provide the necessary hundreds of millions of dollars to "ensure adequate and efficient rail service" while also bailing out other ailing railroads in the heavily populated northeast that includes the vital corridor between Boston and Washington.

Stockholders suit against equity delayed

A stockholders suit against the Equity Funding Life Insurance Company was suspended Friday pending the outcome of a similar suit in federal court.

Los Angeles Superior Court Judge Rodney Potter handed down the ruling in the class action suit against Equity, which is currently operating under a voluntary reorganization plan under the federal bankruptcy laws.

The Securities and Exchange Commission has charged in the federal court suit that the company invented bogus insurance policies.

The Superior Court stockholders suit charges that the firm inflated assets between 1970 and March 27 of this year when trading of shares in the corporation was suspended.

As dodge to price freeze Trading stamp cuts barred

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Groceries, service stations and other retailers cannot stop giving trading stamps as a way of beating the price freeze unless they lower prices at the same time, the Cost of Living Council ruled Friday.

The council also said the freeze covers items sold on military bases and in government exchanges, both in the U.S. and overseas.

The trading stamp question arose since stores pay stamp companies for the right to offer them to customers. When collected in sufficient quantities, the stamps can be exchanged for merchandise.

The idea is to lure enough additional business to offset the cost of the promotion, but many stores also mark up prices to reflect the cost of the stamps.

Cutting out stamps would reduce this expense item but the retailers can only do it "if they pass on the value of the stamps to their customers in the form of lower prices on their merchandise," the council ruled.

The council said merchants either can lower the price of everything they sell by the value of the stamps, or can deduct the value of the stamps from the prices of the items when the customer pays for his purchase.

Woman hits on record jackpot

RENO (UPI) — A San Francisco woman has won a $33,151 jackpot from a slot machine — believed to be the largest payout ever from a one-armed bandit.

The woman, who asked to remain anonymous, said she had put $500 into the $1 machine at Harold's Club when she lined up four men in a barrel symbols in a row.

The middle-aged woman said, "This is the first time I ever won anything. It sure is a nice way to start." She said she will use the money to remodel her home and to allow her husband to retire early.

Yankee dollar's bad day

BONNE, Germany (AP) — West Germany revalued its mark upward 5.5 per cent against seven European currencies Friday and the dollar had its worst day ever in Germany and Switzerland.

The dollar fell more than 2 per cent in Frankfurt and almost 3 per cent in Zurich for its biggest declines ever in these two key monetary markets.

The U.S. currency collapsed to record low closings of 2,4250 German marks in Frankfurt and 2.94 Swiss francs in Zurich.

FRIDAY WAS characterized by monetary uncertainty that cast in doubt the future of efforts so far this year to restore stability.

While the dollar was little changed or slightly improved elsewhere in Europe in late trading, its drastic drop in Frankfurt and Zurich tightened the pinch on U.S. tourists, GIs and other Americans in Germany and Switzerland.

It was the biggest one-day drop ever recorded for the dollar.

The immediate effect of the dollar decline was mixed.

It was a further blow to confidence in the dollar, added to monetary instability and increased the cost of maintaining U.S. troops in Germany.

BUT AT THE same time observers said it made U.S. exports cheaper and easier to sell in Germany, an effect that should help improve America's troubled balance of trade.

It also makes German exports to America costlier and harder to sell, possibly further aiding America's trade balance by discouraging American purchases of such German products as Volkswagens.

The dollar's recent sharp decline has been attributed to disappointing U.S. trade figures, Watergate and U.S. inflation.

The cause of Friday's dollar drop was complex.

West Germany did not revalue its mark upward against the dollar, but instead revalued it upward against seven European currencies with which the mark is jointly floating.

As its new, higher rate, the mark and the other seven currencies continued to float in a bloc against the dollar. This means that the eight European countries do not support the dollar when it falls, but let its value be set by market forces of supply and demand.

THE PURPOSE of the upward revaluation of the mark was to relieve pressure on the West German central bank, which has had to spend billions of inflationary marks in recent days to support the weaker European currencies.

Theoretically, there should have been no direct effect on the mark-dollar rate, since the mark is floating against the dollar. German officials had even predicted the dollar might actually rise.

Instead, the dollar had its worst day ever.

Bankers said this was because the mark revaluation only added to monetary uncertainty and created chaos in money markets. They said there was a psychological reaction to dump the weak dollar and swarm to the strong German mark.

In addition the bankers said, some speculators continued to sell dollars and buy marks on the feeling that the mark had not been revalued high enough and might be revalued even more later. It had been revalued upward by 3 per cent only three months ago.

By LES RODNEY

Did you think, perhaps, that you had heard the last of controversy over "Jesus Christ Superstar"?

Not nearly, folks. Now it's the movie, soon to be playing around the land. And this time, Superstar will come under double-barrelled attack. Not only from Christians who feel the rock opera portrayal of Jesus is irreverent and or blasphemous, but also from outraged Jews who call it anti-Semitic! (Even though the movie was made in Israel.)

The National Jewish Community Relations Advisory Council, a coordinating body of national and local groups, calls the film "a singularly damaging setback in the struggle against the religious sources of anti-Semitism."

The weightier American Jewish Committee, a pioneer human relations agency founded in 1906, is distributing a detailed analysis of the film by Rev. Gerald Strober, a Presbyterian authority on intergroup relations in Christian education. Strober calls Superstar "nothing less than a catastrophe." He says it uses every device of cinematic art "to spread the old falsehood of the Jews' collective responsibility for Jesus' death."

Strober says the movie departs completely from the New Testament accounts, showing the Jewish priesthood as satanically evil, sadistic, and responsible for the death of John the Baptist; showing Roman governor Pontius Pilate, on the other hand, as a man of reason and compassion; showing the people at the temple as bizarre weirdos—prostitutes, drug pushers, sellers of machine guns (yes, machine guns). The movie also shows Judas, played by a black actor, fleeing into the desert pursued by planes and tanks.)

The film, says Strober, a graduate of Moody Bible Institute and former director of the history department at Barrington College, is "anti-Semitic and demeaning."

Universal Pictures will undoubtedly be startled by this attack, especially since the cast traveled to Israel on El Al and the Israelis cooperated in the filming (not in the story content or emphasis.) Also, the director is Norman Jewison, director, no less, of "Fiddler on the Roof." (To mix things up a bit, Jewison is a Methodist.)

There will most likely be some kind of rebuttal to the charges by those responsible for the film. And we have yet to hear from the many Christians who took a dim view of Superstar.

The movie, incidentally, will be rated G, meaning it's OK for everybody.

FROM ATLANTA, we learn that the latest Billy Graham Crusade drew a cumulative attendance of 266,500 in one week. The event encountered a city bus strike, rain early in the week and hot weather for the last days. The meetings were originally scheduled in Atlanta's new downtown arena, the Omni, which seats not quite 18,000, but the executive committee decided to switch to the baseball stadium. Average attendance nightly was 38,000. (Owners of the Atlanta Braves ball club had to be drooling.)

The Graham organization reports a total of 9,735 "decisions for Christ" during the week. More than 70 per cent of those stepping forward at Graham's invitation were under the age of 25.

A committee aptly named "What Now" is functioning to try to hold some of the Crusade's gains in Atlanta.

SPEAKING OF Graham crusades, Harold Lindsell, editor-publisher of Christianity Today, offers the following comment on the all-time record crowd that heard Billy in Korea:

"I would have supposed that the TV networks and the newspapers and magazines in America would have covered this memorable event in detail, but they paid little attention to it. Can it be that for those who have a nose for news the 'good news' of the Gospel isn't particularly newsworthy even when more than a million people gather to hear it?"

A STATEMENT of Concern by Christian leaders over the confiscation and demolition of the only Christian church in Afghanistan calls upon U.S. churches for prayer as well as protest letters to the King of Afghanistan, and letters to President Nixon, the State Department and members of Congress. It is signed by the general secretary of the National Council of Churches, the heads of Fuller Theological Seminary, World Evangelical Fellowship, World Vision, Christian & Missionary Alliance and others.

Vatican dashes liberal hopes

VATICAN CITY (UPI)

The Vatican this week issued a worldwide directive to Roman Catholic bishops which stressed their "religious obedience" to the Pope and dashed liberal bishops' hopes for a more independent role.

The 150-page document, commissioned by the Second Vatican Council and prepared by the Sacred Congregation for Bishops, gave both general and specific instructions to bishops on their ministry and life. However, the directive did not enlarge the bishops' powers or give them a bigger voice in policy-making.

Chile troops quell revolt

SANTIAGO, Chile (UPI) — Loyalist troops firing bazookas, mortars and machine guns Friday smashed a rebellion by an armored regiment in a three-hour battle outside the presidential palace.

President Salvador Allende, claiming victory, placed Chile under martial law and said his leftist government would use "all necessary tools to punish those responsible" for the uprising.

The government warned that anyone on the streets of the capital from 11 p.m. to 6:30 a.m. risked being shot by troops and police.

THE CENTRAL first aid station said at least five persons — four civilians and a soldier — were shot to death and many others wounded in the fighting that raged through the center of this capital of 3.3 million. One of the dead was identified as Argentine newsman Leonardo Erichsen, a correspondent for the Swedish Radio and Television Broadcasting Corp.

Hospitals broadcast appeals for blood and volunteer medical personnel.

In a nationally broadcast speech from his bullet-riddled palace, Allende said loyalist units had crushed "the attempt by traitors to overthrow the constitutional government."

The Marxist president said he was declaring a state of siege throughout the nation, suspending constitutional guarantees and placing the nation under martial law.

ALLENDE was breakfasting in his suburban residence, about 12 miles away, when the fighting flared. He drove to the palace under heavy police and military guard when the battle ended.

Along the route, groups of supporters roared: "Allende! Allende! The people will defend you!"

The rebellious Second Armored Regiment returned to its barracks with its officers under arrest.

The battle exploded at 9 a.m. when the regiment's tanks and armored cars opened fire on the presidential palace, a three-story stone building flanked by government skyscrapers.

The tanks rocketed hundreds of shells against the palace. Police, inside, returned the fire with carbines and machine-guns.

Cambodian Reds advance

Refugees in way of air attacks

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — American warplanes flew protective cover over river and road convoys in Cambodia Friday, but they were unable to attack rebel troops advancing north of Phnom Penh because of fleeing civilian refugees.

The government newspaper Prayoch Khmer appealed in an open letter to the U.S. Congress to allow American planes to continue their raids over Cambodia. If the raids are halted, the newspaper said, Cambodia will fall to the Communists.

The letter was the most lengthy reference yet in the controlled Phnom Penh press to the possibility of a bombing halt.

On Highway 6, where two towns already have fallen to the rebels this week, more than 2,000 refugees streamed toward a ferry crossing 18 miles north of Phnom Penh to escape advancing Communist troops.

The refugees told newsmen that another government position four miles north of the ferry crossing was overrun early Friday, and the rebel forces were continuing to move toward the capital. Four Cambodian soldiers who had stripped off their military uniforms and fled the front said 30 of their comrades were captured.

Troops holding the west bank of the ferry crossing asked permission to abandon their post at mid-morning, but their commanders refused to allow them to pull back. Later in the day, they pushed out approximately 400 yards from the ferry crossing in fighting in which at least one Cambodian soldier was wounded and three others captured.

U.S. observation pilots flying over the highway reported the road strewn with bodies and said planes could not bomb or strafed because of the fleeing civilian refugees.

American planes flew escort missions Friday, covering a truck convoy of 216 vehicles that brought supplies of rice and fish to Phnom Penh from the southern deep-water port of Kompong Som and accompanying empty supply ships returning on the Mekong River from the Cambodian capital to South Vietnam.

Meanwhile, Vietnam, Communist artillery shelled a refugee camp near the central highland city of Kontum just an hour after President Nguyen Van Thieu visited the settlement, the Saigon command said Friday.

The command said 17 civilians were wounded Thursday when the Communists fired 31 artillery shells into the Ngok Long refugee settlement two miles southwest of Kontum and into Tan Dien village four miles to the southwest. Some of the shells came from the deadly accurate Soviet-made 130mm guns.

Thieu had left the refugee camp following an inspection visit an hour before the shells started coming in.

The bombardment occurred as fighting intensified near Kontum, a central highland city 260 miles north of Saigon, despite a local South Vietnamese government commander's ultimatum to the Communists to pull back by Friday or face a counter-offensive.

A Christian view of Watergate lessons

'Truth becomes a stranger to us...'

United States Sen. Mark O. Hatfield (R-Ore.), a Baptist leader who has played a leading role in conservative evangelical circles, in an address before the Chicago Mayor's Prayer Breakfast in May discussed the vulnerability of national leadership from a Christian viewpoint.

Here are excerpts from his speech, as published in the magazine Christianity Today:

"All of us who hold positions of leadership, whether in the political, the economic, or the religious sphere of life, must think through the meaning of the tragic affairs that have afflicted the highest leadership of our nation.

SEN. HATFIELD
'Misplaced idolatry'

"However, we would always rather hide our wounds than heal them. It is always more comfortable to believe in the symbols of righteousness than to acknowledge the reality of evil. This is especially true in our national political life. And we have become adroit at manipulating religious impulses in our land to sanctify this political life. That is the temptation of our 'civil religion.' We run the risk of misplaced allegiance, if not idolatry, by failing to distinguish between the god of an American civil religion and the God who reveals himself in the Scriptures and in Jesus Christ.

"We want to believe that our nation and its leaders are right, just and pure. We want to put our country beyond the reach of God's judgment. Why? Because everything is so much simpler then. We want to believe, in the words printed on the back of our Great Seal, that 'God has ordained our undertakings,' and not believe that God also judges them.

"This impulse is born out of our own lives. We want to believe we merit God's blessings. How hard it is to admit that we stand in need of God's forgiveness. We would rather celebrate Easter than Good Friday. But without Good Friday, there can be no Easter.

"We must look to biblical religion—not civil religion—for the wisdom to guide our lives, and the life of the nation. Then we discover that our prayers must begin with prayers of repentance. We must start talking about sin again—sin in our personal lives, and sin the corporate life of the country... then we come face to face with the unavoidable reality of sin. In the words of St. John: 'If we refuse to admit that we are sinners, then we live in a world of illusion, and truth becomes a stranger to us.' (1 John 1:8).

"...There is an idolatry of the Presidency; we, as Americans, bow to the powers and prestige associated with 'pat office' in a way that can be ungodly. This makes temptations and burdens that fall on the shoulders of any mortal who occupies that office to be almost unbearable, and corrupting.

"...We cannot separate our allegiance to God from our love for our fellow man. In our nation, this must especially include a love for the poor and the dispossessed.

Here again it is so easy for us to neglect the reality of God's judgment on us as a people. We are tempted to think that the millions of impoverished citizens in our land are merely an unfortunate fact of life. But God takes the suffering of the poor far more seriously.

"What, for instance, was the greatest sin of the city of Sodom, which caused its destruction by God? Sexual immorality? Listen to the words of Ezekiel, in the Old Testament: 'This was the iniquity of your sister Sodom: she and her daughters had pride of wealth and food in plenty, comfort and ease, and yet she never helped the poor and wretched.' Wherever wealth abounds and the poor continue to suffer, we must confront God's judgment..."

STAR OPERA DUO IS BACK

Robert Hale, left, and Dean Wilder, national opera stars whose musical teamwork in sacred concerts had drawn critical acclaim from newspapers coast to coast—including this newspaper—are back in Long Beach Sunday, at First Baptist Church of Lakewood, 5336 Arbor Road, at 7 p.m. They will also appear Sunday at the 9:45 and 11 a.m. services of First Nazarene, 2280 Clark Ave.

Christian and real patriotism

In a July 4th editorial entitled "The Christian as Patriot," the magazine Christianity Today, a leading voice of Protestant evangelism, made reference to Watergate, saying, in part:

"The attitude, 'My country, right or wrong,' i.e., a patriotism that glosses over national defects or that idolizes the nation, is always misplaced and misguided. It only becomes more obviously wrong at a time like the present. Real patriotism, however, will not lose faith in the ideals of the nation even as it will not whitewash its shortcomings....

"The Christian citizen will not cease to love his country even when he must pronounce judgment upon it. But he must demand that the guilty be brought to justice, that the cancer be cut out of the body politic, and that the government of the nation be controlled by people of integrity whose actions do not belie their words....

"At this Fourth of July season, the finest patriot should be the Christian who takes his faith seriously, who acknowledges his leaders' shortcomings, who judges the country fairly for what it is, and who works to make it what it ought to be under God."

REV. GOUGH
First Sermon Here

New 1st Methodist pastor in debut

Rev. Galal Gough will preach his first sermon Sunday, 11 a.m., as the new senior minister of First United Methodist Church.

Rev. Gough comes to the historic downtown church at Fifth and Pacific from six years of leadership at First Church of Santa Ana, during which time the Santa Ana church became known for successful community mission projects, including a teen mother program, Wesley Family Development Center and a mental health activity center.

He was the first chairman of the Santa Ana Human Relations Commission, served on the Orange County Affirmative Action Advisory Board, was past president of the Santa Ana-Tustin Council of Churches, and was chairman of the 3,000-member Council of Ministers for the Billy Graham

Southland Crusade held in Anaheim in 1969.

Gough graduated magna cum laude from the University of Redlands in 1961, and received his Masters from USC School of Religion. He served as pastor of Christ Methodist of Norwalk for five years, and St. Mark's Methodist of San Diego for nine years before moving to Santa Ana.

He comes to Long Beach with his wife, Gloria, and four daughters. He will begin his preaching ministry with a month-long emphasis on prayer and its relation to Christian life.

Favor amnesty

The American Jewish Congress this week called for unconditional amnesty for "all those who were compelled by their conscience to refuse to participate in the Vietnam War."

Mormon open house to show early history

The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, Norwalk Stake, invites the public to an educational open house this evening.

The program features the film "Ancient America Speaks," by Dr. Paul Chessman, which centers on the culture of ancient America. It tells of the flourishing civilizations that existed here as recorded in the scriptures of "The Book of Mormon." Displays and models of artifacts, temples, stone carvings and writings will be shown.

A series of brief presentations featuring illuminated paintings, or "translites," will portray the historic accomplishments of the early inhabitants of this continent.

The bishops of the three Cerritos wards are hosting the open house in the Cerritos Chapel, 17909 Bloomfield Ave., Cerritos, from 5 to 10 p.m. Refreshments will be served.

Christians to Israel for 'Jewish sources'

A group of 23 Christian scholars, men and women currently teaching Bible and Biblical history in American colleges, universities and seminaries will leave July 15th for a five-week seminar in Israel to study "The Jewish Sources of Christianity."

The summer study program was developed by the institutions of Reform Judaism and Duke University.

It will include study with outstanding scholars from the universities of Israel and actual archaeological field work in the Galilee, the birthplace of early Christianity. The group will also participate in the Sixth World Congress of Jewish Studies.

The study course for the seminar will be divided into three areas: The Common Background of Judaism and Christianity, Archaeology of the Holy Land and Rabbinic Judaism and its Impact on Religious Thought.

Prof. W.D. Davies, Washington Irving professor of Advanced Studies and Research in Christian Origins at Duke University, and Dr. Shemaryahu Talmon, professor of Bible, Hebrew University, serve as faculty directors.

POSITIVE THINKING

by Norman Vincent Peale

Five steps to change

After stumbling along for years a friend of mine suddenly found the secret of success. He says his success was due to five simple rules.

This man changed remarkably in middle life and really began to go places and accomplish things. When I first knew him a few years ago he was a likeable guy who just wasn't getting anywhere. His personality was pleasant. But lacked force. The most engaging thing about him in those years was his ingratiating sociability. He never seemed to turn it off. Finally I got suspicious that this was partly a cover-up for some underlying sense of inferiority. And that, guess proved to be right.

As I got to know him better his frustrations came through and he admitted his failure as a person. He even referred to himself disparagingly as a mediocrity. He just didn't seem to have what it takes, he would say glumly. This admission gave me a first real glimpse of the painful inner self behind the super sociable exterior. It was that of a frustrated, deeply unhappy human being. We discussed his problem from time to time and I outlined a course of reading for him, including books that had triggered other people to more successful living.

PRESENTLY THERE were signs of something happening to the man. There was a marked difference in his manner. He somehow seemed more thoughtful, more collected and at the same time more dynamic. And on one occasion he remarked — giving no details — that he thought he was at last beginning to make some progress "with himself". Well, the new beginning proved to be for real. From there he went on to become a more successful businessman and a far more impressive human being.

Afterwards I asked this man how he explained his new success. I already knew the basic thing that had given him his new beginning: he had developed some sound spiritual faith which resulted in more faith in himself. But to go so far so fast, especially after his uninspired performance, he must have applied more positive faith consistently in specific ways and that was what I wanted to hear about.

In reply he listed five rules by which he had learned to live more effectively. These are the secrets of his success:

FIRST: "Be bold and mighty powers will come to your aid." That is a sentence from Basil King's book The Conquest of Fear and is a most significant statement. By fearfulness, by timidity you cut yourself off from power — and I suspect that this was one important factor in my friend's dilemma back before he found himself. But when you venture boldly, from the life-force itself comes a flow of power potential. It is a law that dynamic powers emerge to the degree that you attack life boldly.

SECOND: Deny adverse conditions. Do not think, or say, "Conditions are against me" or "Things don't look good." Face facts, but realize it often happens that a person is defeated not by the facts of a situation, but by his negative interpretation of the facts. Avoid the subjective notion that conditions are adverse. In every problem is an inherent good. Believe that every problem contains the seeds of its own solution.

THIRD: See and constantly picture good outcomes. By envisioning good you actually bring good influences into play, both within yourself and in the world around you. Life tends to develop your long sustained mental image of yourself.

FOURTH: Hold genuinely friendly thoughts for each client, customer or other business contact. See him benefiting from the dealings you have with him. Put him first in your thoughts. This will stimulate a reverse flow of values.

FIFTH: Practice brotherly love toward everybody.

That is my old friend's five-fold formula for successful living. The formula changed him and so changed things for him. The consistent use of these vital principles can lift anyone out of a failure pattern to real success.

Woman priests Episcopal issue

CLEVELAND, Ohio — Bishop John H. Burt of the Episcopal Diocese of Ohio says the ordination of women to the priesthood will be a major issue when the church's General Conference convenes in Louisville, Ky., in September.

Women are not now accepted into the Episcopal priesthood. Last Saturday, Burt ordained the first woman deacon in the Ohio diocese, Joan Grimm of Christ Church in Warren.

Ordination to the diaconate is a preliminary to ordination to the Episcopal priesthood.

1st Protestants to take stand

Allow death when it's hopeless—United Church

By GEORGE CORNELL
ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — A new position among Protestants was staked out this week as a major denomination concluded that a terminally ill person—by his choice or that of relatives—should be allowed to die without unusual measures to keep his body functioning.

"We do not believe... the continuance of mere physical existence is either morally defensible, socially desirable or God's will," declared the United Church of Christ.

"We believe there comes a time in the course of an irreversible terminal illness when, in the interest of love, mercy, and compassion, those who are caring for a patient should say: 'Enough.'"

Acting at its national governing synod, the 2-million-member denomination became the first major Protestant church to take that official position on the issue, although Pope Paul VI has indicated a similar view.

He said recently that "heroic" medical measures may not be warranted to maintain more physical processes when an irreversibly terminal illness has deprived a person of conscious human personality.

As the United Church put it:

"Our religious heritage... requires equal regard for both body and spirit. Accordingly, over-regard for the body, without proper concerns for the needs of the person or the human spirit, can become a kind of biological idolatry."

On other matters, the Church also:

—After extensive debate, directed that all duly prepared church literature, worship materials and hymnals be purged of male-oriented terminology, such as "brotherhood of man," so as to be inclusive of women.

—Completed balloting in a race for church vice moderator, electing a young white layman, Charles W. Elicker of Seattle, Wash., over a Winnebago Indian candidate, Peter Thundercloud of Black River Falls, Wis.

DR. FRANK COLLINS

This Sunday will be a special day at Calvary Baptist. As well as being "Promotion Sunday," we will also celebrate our country's independence. To everyone attending the 9:45 a.m. service, we want to present a parchment copy of the "Declaration of Independence." Please come and share this day with us.

As Christian people we are indeed grateful for the freedom we enjoy in America. We believe it to be a gift from God and therefore to be utilized for His glory. Freedom does not come without responsibility. Out of our land the Gospel must be taken to the entire world. Now more than ever, we must take advantage of the opportunities afforded to believers living in a free society. "Ye are my witnesses."

Come to Calvary, Calvary is for you.

JOHN DEAN III and his wife, Maureen, appear to be in good spirits near the end of his testimony before the Senate Watergate Committee.

WHITE HOUSE RIPS DEAN

had traveled with him to China and Russia. He said the Justice Department had referred the case back to the Internal Revenue Service, only to be assured that it was "an absolutely solid case."

BUT THE fired presidential counsel insisted that he shrugged off most of such pressures and tried to tone down the zeal of Nixon's political operatives.

In a rambling morning of questions and answers, Dean also:

—Agreed with Sen. Joseph M. Montoya, D-N.M., that Nixon knew to the contrary when he said last Aug. 29 Dean had investigated the Watergate case and found no White House officials involved in the scandal.

—Was caught by Sen. Edward J. Gurney, R-Fla., in inconsistencies in his previous testimony regarding his personal finances and a meeting last summer with Nixon's personal lawyer about providing hush money to the Watergate defendants.

—Confirmed that high White House officials this spring discussed "digging up dirt" on members of the Senate Watergate Committee to try to discredit their probe.

—Said the White House "enemies list" of potential targets of government retaliation for actions unpopular with the administration was used "principally" by key presidential advisers Haldeman and Colson.

DEAN testified that the Internal Revenue Service was one of the agencies used for dealing with presidential friends and foes alike.

He said the President had complained to him at a Sept. 15 meeting last year that his administration had been unable thus far to "use" the IRS to political advantage as had Democratic administrations before him.

"I do recall him very clearly telling me to 'make a good list of those who are giving us problems, because we'll take care of them after the election, we'll make life less than pleasant for them," Dean testified.

"The conversation moved directly from there to a discussion of the Internal Revenue Service."

On another occasion, he said, "I was told to do something about those (tax) audits that were being performed on two friends of the President, that they felt they were being harassed and the like." Some time later, he went on, he saw a memo written by Haldeman that "this has already been taken care of."

"There's a third instance where this occurred."

NEW YORK (AP) — David and Julie Nixon Eisenhower on Friday night asserted President Nixon knew nothing of the Watergate burglary or later cover-up attempts and said the truth would have to come from the President's former aides.

"You don't always know what those men are doing," Nixon's daughter said, referring to the aides. "You don't know which men were involved because all the facts are not in."

"I don't think you can judge the entire administration through this one matter," she said.

red also ...," he went on. "There was an audit on someone who was close to the President. Several got involved in this. They said, 'John, you've got to do something about this because the President is just going to hit the roof when he finds out about it.'"

"Well, I went to the Justice Department because it had already gone from Internal Revenue to the criminal division of the Justice Department. I spoke to (Deputy Atty. Gen. Ralph E.) Erickson about it. He said 'This man is just up to his teeth in this problem.'"

"AND I reported back to the people who were asking me. I said 'Just don't touch this. There is just no way. This man is in trouble and he's got to be told he's in trouble. So that is the way I handled these situations and I thought that was the proper way the counsel's office, should handle them."

Dean did not say who had applied the pressure on him, and he declined to identify publicly the friends of the President involved.

The Washington Post, however, reported earlier this week that documents Dean has submitted to the committee identify two of them as the Rev. Billy Graham and movie star John Wayne.

Under close questioning by Sen. Daniel K. Inouye, D-Hawaii, Dean conceded he had written a memo in August of 1971 suggesting ways the White House could "use federal machinery to screw our political enemies."

But Dean insisted the memo was not typical and he had tried to shelve such tactics. "Is this your idea of restraining influence?" Inouye asked.

"It took a good bit of push before I would prepare even a document like that," Dean replied. "I had had request after request after request to prepare that."

DEAN, cool under fire for five days, was ruffled briefly when Gurney produced hotel records to prove that Herbert Kalmbach, the President's personal attorney, had not been registered at the Mayflower Hotel in Washington last June 29 — the date Dean had testified he met with him in Kalmbach's room there to discuss payoffs to the original Watergate defendants.

Gurney's records showed Kalmbach was actually registered at the Statler Hilton Hotel nearby. But Dean insisted he had first met Kalmbach at the Mayflower coffee shop and had gone with him upstairs to Kalmbach's room.

The tension caused by the apparent conflict snapped in laughter when Dean's lawyer whispered in his ear and then Dean turned to the committee to say he had just remembered that the coffee shop at the Statler Hotel was named the "Mayflower."

"His memory is apparently much better than yours," Gurney told Dean, referring to the attorney.

L.A. man held Bus hijacked, passenger slain

FRESNO (AP) — A man armed with a jagged piece of glass terrorized 16 passengers on a Los Angeles-bound Greyhound bus and killed a man before being captured by a therapist at a hospital here late Friday, officers said.

The victim was Calvin Wilson, 22, of Fresno. Sheriff's deputies booked Johnny Smith, 18, of Los Angeles, for investigation of murder and kidnapping.

Officers had said the assailant robbed the passengers, but later said no robberies had occurred but that he had rifled through several purses. It was not known what he was searching for, deputies said.

At one point, Smith ordered all 16 passengers on the bus to stand up and repeat three times, "I am not insane" and "I am thirsty."

Sheriff's Lt. Stan Barnes gave this account: The bizarre incident began shortly before 5 p.m. on U.S. Highway 99 between Madera and Fresno when Smith allegedly began to strike Wilson around the throat.

The driver stopped the bus and quieted the two men. But after he resumed driving, the fight began again, and the driver started looking for a police station.

Smith then went to the front of the bus, got a piece of glass from a rear view mirror and ordered the bus to Valley Medical Center so the victim could be treated.

When they arrived, he ordered everyone off the bus and took Maragret Harris of Vallejo as a hostage.

Holding a piece of glass to her throat, he took her into the hospital and up to the fifth floor.

Rodger Peck, 27, a therapist, was making his rounds when he heard about a disturbance in the hospital and a hostage being held.

"I saw a lady sitting in the treatment room, and I heard all this glass breaking," Peck said. "I asked a security guard 'what's going on?' The guard said, 'he's in there.' So I took the guard's handcuffs, went in there and he was breaking big glass gallon jugs on the floor."

"I took one of the bottles away from him, backing him into a corner and handcuffed him ..."

"I didn't know the guy had killed anybody," Peck said.

Ehrlichman vows to 'trip up' Dean

NEW YORK (AP) — Former White House aide John Ehrlichman said in a television interview aired Friday that he became aware of a Watergate cover-up effort for the first time last March during an inquiry he made at the request of President Nixon.

"The White House had no interest, as such, in covering this thing up. It had no exposure," said Ehrlichman. He maintained that Nixon himself wanted all witnesses to testify fully to the facts.

Ehrlichman said the Watergate matter had been the responsibility of John W. Dean III in his office as counsel to the President.

Dean has testified before the Senate Watergate hearings in Washington that Ehrlichman had been part of the cover up all along.

Meanwhile, the Christian Science Monitor said in its Saturday edition Ehrlichman says his testimony before the Senate Watergate committee will "trip up" Dean and his allegations.

Ehrlichman was interviewed by the Monitor's Washington correspondent, Jack Waugh.

He said he has reviewed his records "and they show that literally months went by during the time Dean was talking about that I had no contact with him at all. To hear his testimony he was in and out of my office every 10 minutes."

"He says, however, he has no written records. Well, I do. And Dean will be tripped up by the logs I kept of all meetings," The Monitor quoted Ehrlichman as saying.

Ehrlichman said the only other Watergate link to the White House besides Dean "probably ... will be determined in the testimony of Gordon Strachan. And I think it will be seen that that link was a good deal less than the current impression presents."

Strachan, an aide of former Nixon chief of staff H.R. Haldeman, acted as liaison between Haldeman and the Committee for the Re-election of the President.

The Monitor quoted Ehrlichman's theory on Dean's attempt to link the President to the cover-up:

"I have a feeling that having failed to receive immunity from prosecution by offering testimony about Haldeman and me, he switched to this current effort to strike at the President — for the same purpose. But that doesn't affect the facts as I know them."

In his CBS interview, Ehrlichman said: "I don't claim to have been very prescient in this whole thing. I was a late bloomer, I must confess," he said. "And it was not until very late in this inquiry that I made at the President's request, that I finally put the last few pieces in the puzzle and began to see where Dean fit."

Asked if he had concluded that "Dean's the guy" in the cover-up effort, Ehrlichman replied:

"No, I still wasn't quite that bright. I wish that I had been brighter about this."

Ehrlichman appeared on CBS-TV "60 Minutes" with correspondent Mike Wallace in a session taped on Thursday.

Asked if he knew whether Dean had conducted an investigation before President Nixon announced Aug. 29 that there was no White House involvement in the Watergate affair, Ehrlichman replied:

"Oh, I know. I did in order to make a conclusive answer to a question like that, I would like to be able to direct you to some of Dean's own writing that's in evidence up there, which I understand corroborates the fact that he did, in fact, make an investigation."

In a British Broadcasting Corp. interview broadcast in London, Ehrlichman said that "there was a Dean investigation" and that Dean "imparted to us that fruits of his investigation."

In the CBS broadcast, Ehrlichman agreed with Wallace that the men chosen for some national security missions had been "pretty sloppy" and added: "I can't condone that."

He reiterated that he had no prior knowledge of the 1971 break-in at the offices of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist, but he said he authorized the general investigation, and "I did have a responsibility."

Ehrlichman shied away from specific questions related to Dean's testimony before the Senate Watergate Committee.

State education overhaul asked

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The state's master plan for higher education would be scrapped, the power of University of California regents would be cut and a new education superboard would be created under a legislative package introduced Friday.

The eight measures — five constitutional amendments and three bills — would take away the power of UC regents to impose tuition. They would also declare legislative intent that a continuing planning process, instead of a fixed master plan, should be used to develop California's higher education system.

OTHER PARTS of the package would revise the way UC regents, state university trustees and community college governors are picked. The headquarters for the community colleges, the University of California and the California State University and Colleges would have to be located in Sacramento under the plan.

The UC regents presently are headquartered at the Berkeley UC campus and the CSUC trustees, headquartered in Los Angeles, are planning a move to a new head office in Long Beach.

A Postsecondary Education Commission would be created to oversee the state's university and public college systems under one of the proposed constitutional amendments.

All eight measures were prepared by the legislature's Joint Committee on the Master Plan for Higher Education, which has been conducting a study of the state's public higher education system for the past several months.

THE COMMITTEE is headed by Assemblyman John Vasconcellos, D-San Jose.

Governor, staff trim big budget

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Reagan and his staff Friday hastily reviewed — with an eye towards trimming — the record $9.46 billion proposed state budget sent to him 13 days late.

Ed Gray, press secretary to the governor, said Reagan would sign the state's spending program for the next fiscal year Saturday, only one day before it is supposed to take effect.

Reagan's top advisers huddled throughout the day Friday, going over the budget item by item, Gray said.

The Legislature sent the spending proposal, the largest of any state in the nation, to Reagan Thursday. Aides said review of the budget began even before it was officially approved.

SALES TAX HIKES SUNDAY

proposal which had twice been rejected by the Senate Finance Committee.

The proposal put off the sales tax increase until Jan. 1, 1974, and also allowed Californians to deduct 30 per cent from their 1973 income tax obligation, with single taxpayers earning $4,000 or less and married workers earning $8,000 or less excused from paying any income taxes at all.

But the provision to which Reagan objected limited the credit which could be claimed to $100 for single taxpayers and $200 for married wage-earners.

The ceiling was unfair, he said, because "I promised all taxpayers at least a 20 per cent rebate, and under SB425, some taxpayers would not receive 20 per cent."

The governor described SB425 as a "phony" bill, and accused Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti of "single handedly sabotaging and killing legislation to delay a scheduled one-cent increase in the sales tax."

He said Moretti had refused even to consider a compromise proposal and had ignored an invitation to discuss their differences.

The Reagan proposal contained the same sales tax hike delay and low income zero tax features, but offered a different income tax rebate schedule.

Under his plan, joint returns of $15,000 and under would get a 35 per cent credit on 1973 taxes, earners of incomes between $15,001 and $20,000 could claim a 30 per cent deduction, $20,001 and $25,000 25 per cent, and more than $25,000 20 per cent.

Moretti responded that the governor's proposal was "outrageous," because it favored "the very, very rich."

"He wants to make sure the 4 per cent of the wage-earners who make more than $25,000 get far more than their share. Under his proposal, compared to ours, people making more than $25,000 yearly would have an additional $70 million to divide among themselves."

Shortly after learning the details of the amended version of SB425, the governor let Assembly Republicans know of his disapproval and his intention to prepare a counter proposal. Nevertheless, 17 GOP members joined

Fun for Laura! Leads tourney in pro debut

ATLANTA (Special) — "This is what I've looked forward to all my life. I'm convinced that whatever happens it is going to be fun," Laura Baugh said Friday after making her United States pro golf debut in the $30,000 Lady Tara tournament.

It was fun Friday for Miss Baugh.

She carded a sparkling three-under-par 70 to gain a share of the tournament's first-round lead with four veteran Sandra Haynie.

Miss Baugh's 70 came less than 24 hours after she had completed three rounds of grueling qualifying that earned her a Ladies' Professional Golf Assn. playing card.

Laura shot an 83 on her first qualifying round but then came back with a 72 and a 76 to become one of only three ladies to earn the card.

"The tension in qualifying was really great," said Laura. "When I finally did qualify, it was a tremendous relief. Last night (Thursday) I was completely relaxed. I had nine hours sleep. Today I felt great on the first tee and as the day went on I hit the ball well and that helped me relax."

Laura, who graduated from Wilson High School in February and didn't become old enough (18) to play on the tour until last May 31, sank a seven-foot putt for a birdie on the first hole Friday.

She then ran off a string of 12 consecutive pars, broke that with an eagle on the 14th, then parred out the remainder of the holes.

"I'm very happy," Laura said of her round. "The trees were very good to me today."

Miss Baugh was referring to the 14th hole in which her second shot - a five-wood - bounced over a trap, hit a tree and bounced onto the green. She sank a six-foot putt for the eagle.

"That would never happen again in 1,000 years," Laura laughed. "Any other time the ball would have kicked right into the woods. It must have been magic."

Laura also banked a shot off a tree onto the green on the 17th. She two-putted for a par.

Miss Baugh, already touted as the newest attraction on the LPGA tour, wore pink hot pants, a white blouse and matching pink pigtail ribbons, and lured many of the fans away from the more established pros. Laura signed autographs and mingled with the crowd between shots.

"The gallery seemed to grow as the day went on,"

Dodgers persevere, sink Braves in 12th

By GORDON VERRELL
Staff Writer

ATLANTA — The Dodgers won a milestone 50th victory Friday night, twice coming from behind, three times averting sudden death in the ninth, 10th and 11th innings and also overcoming five Atlanta home runs including No. 693 by Henry Aaron.

The Dodgers won it, 12-9, when Bill Russell broke a 9-9 tie with bases-loaded, two-run single in the top half of the 12th inning before what was left of an Atlanta Stadium turnout of 9,987.

It kept the O'Malleys 5½ games in front of San Francisco in the National League West as the Dodgers open a four-game weekend series tonight in Cincinnati's Riverfront Stadium.

The win, the 22nd come-from-behind triumph for the "Babes of Summer," puts the Dodgers on a 100-win pace for the first time since 1962 — the only time in Walter Alston's 20-year career he's won 100-or-more games.

Last year the Dodgers didn't attain their 50th victory until Aug. 2.

The Dodgers clubbed 16 hits in their sixth win in seven starts, all but two of them singles.

The sagging Braves, who have dropped 11 of their last 13 games — as well as 11 of 13 this season against the Dodgers — were much more damaging.

Besides Aaron, the Braves had homers by

But it was the shot by Russell, the dynamic young shortstop, a brisk single through the Braves' drawn-in infield, which was the telling blow.

It was Russell's second hit of the night, running his batting streak to six games, as he reached the .300 plateau for the first time in 1973.

"Yes," he said confidently afterward, "I do consider myself a .300 hitter."

"If there's anything different about the way I'm hitting now it's because I'm more mature. Of course, one thing leads to another. The team is playing great and that makes it all the easier."

After Russell's game-winning blow, Chris Cannizzaro followed with a run-scoring single, his second hit of the night, to run his batting "streak" to two games, his longest of the year.

In all, there were 37 players employed — 20 by the Dodgers. Both clubs used six pitchers and by the time the game ended the only non-pitcher on the Dodgers' bench was Tom Tischinski.

After the Braves scored an unearned run against starter Al Downing in the first, the Dodgers nailed Morton for four runs on five — all after two were out — in the third.

But the Braves started their homer barrage in the fifth. Mike Lum lined a three-run shot into the rightfield seats, his second homer in as many nights, and one out later Morton hit his first of the year to put Atlanta on top, 5-4.

Aaron's homer, following an error on Downing, came in the sixth inning, giving the Braves a three-run advantage and Downing an early shower although he gave up only five hits — three of them homers.

The Dodgers finally chased Morton in the seventh when they scored four more times to regain the lead, 8-7.

That's where it stayed until Evan's two-out, ninth inning homer off Jim Brewer dramatically tied the game. It was Evans' 19th homer of the year, seven of them against the Dodgers.

Willie Davis opened the Dodgers' 10th with a double to right, the first extra base hit by the Dodgers all evening, and he took third when Cey fled to right.

Willie Crawford was purposely walked, putting runners at first and third. Then McMullen batted for

Darwin, Blyleven slam Angels, 4-0

By DON MERRY
Staff Writer

It was one of those classics.

Bert Blyleven, the owner of one of the planet's best curves, was matched against Nolan Ryan, who is faster than the average bullet.

Score one for the curves.

Score four for Bobby Darwin, too, while you're at it.

With the bases loaded and two out in the eighth inning, Ryan tried to smoke a fastball past Darwin.

He didn't make it.

Darwin hit it into outer space for a grand slam home run and that was the difference as Blyleven four-hit the Angels for a 4-0 conquest Friday night.

So now the Angels are fourth in the American League West but they remain within one half-game of first place.

Ryan won the strikeout battle, 12-2, but Blyleven was almost mechanically perfect. He retired the fastball look that much better.

Blyleven disagreed, at least as it pertained to Friday's game.

"I was having trouble with the mound," Blyleven said, "and I felt I wasn't on top of my curveball. That's why I wasn't getting any strikeouts."

For seven scintillating innings it was a scoreless duel before the Twiis and Darwin erupted like Mt. Vesuvius.

George Mitterwald walked and Jim Holt bunted to the right of the mound. Ryan couldn't flag it down and when Mike Epstein did, he couldn't pick it up. It went for a base hit.

"That damn bunt was the key to the whole inning," sighed Winkles.

Ryan struck out Rod Carew and induced Jerry Terrell to hit into a force play before walking Tony Oliva to load the bases.

His next thought was to get ahead of Darwin in Upstart plots Wimbledon strategy Top seeds sailing along

WIMBLEDON, England (P) — Young Alex Mayer is pinning his chances of upsetting top-seeded Ilie Nastase today on the hope that the mercurial Romanian ace will be in one of his down moods.

"Nastase does lose concentration now and then," said the 21-year-old Mayer, in a major understatement.

"I can't hope to overpower or out-finess him, so I've got to play solidly and wait for his bad streaks."

Nastase, by far the most glamorous name in the men's field decimated by the strike of the Association of Tennis Professionals, coasted into the fourth round with a 7-5, 6-2, 6-4 victory over Toshiro Sakai of Japan Friday.

Mayer, a law student from Wayne, N.J., earned his way into the round of 16 by beating Vladimir Zednik of Czechoslovakia 8-6, 7-5, 6-0, using a smashing serve and hard volleys to overpower his opponent in the third set.

Mayer has faced Nastase once before, in a tournament in Orange, N.J. last year. Nastase won that encounter 6-4, 7-6, but Mayer recalls, "He only broke my service once, and that was in the very first game of the match."

Mayer is one of only three Americans — out of 21 who started Monday — to reach the last 16. The other two are Jimmy Connors, the left-hander from Belleville, Ill. who is seeded fifth, and Bob McKinley, from St. Ann, Mo., whose brother Chuck won Wimbledon back in 1963.

Connors, who clobbered Bob Simpson of New Zealand 6-2, 6-1, 6-2 without losing a single service game Friday, plays Bernard Mitton of South Africa in fourth-round action today.

McKinley, a 6-2, 3-6, 7-5, 7-5 victor over Norman Holmes of Melbourne, Fla. Friday, faces Roger Taylor, the No. 3 seed from Britain.

In another fourth-round match, Bjorn Borg, the teenagers' delight from Sweden, faces Hungary's Szaboics Baranyi.

So far, all eight seeds in both men's and women's singles are through to the last 16.

The ranking women, however, have been impressive and authoritative with only Virginia Wade losing a set thus far.

Defending champion and No. 2 seed Billie Jean King of Long Beach, easily beat Kerry Harris of Australia 6-2, 6-3 Friday

Murcer fined $250, but won't back down

NEW YORK (P) — Bobby Murcer, fined $250 by baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn Friday, refused to back down from his charges that neither Kuhn nor American League president Joe Cronin has the "guts" to stop Cleveland pitcher Gaylord Perry, among others, from throwing spitballs.

Following an afternoon meeting with the New York Yankee outfielder, Kuhn announced the fine.

"I met this afternoon with Bobby Murcer regarding his recent statements about president Cronin and myself. He apologized for his remarks. In light of the apology, I have limited the fine to $250."

But Murcer, asked prior to the Yankees' game against the Indians — and Perry — Friday night whether he had apologized, replied, "We had just lost a close game which I felt we should have won. I told him a lot of things are said in the locker room after you've lost a close game."

He then repeated his charge that Perry uses a foreign substance on the ball, and that the American League umpires are doing nothing to stop him.

"Yes, Perry throws greasballs," Murcer declared. "It doesn't look like a forkball or a fastball, it's got to be a greasball. The pitch comes in real fast and it just drops."

"I have felt substance on the ball. I don't think the umpires want to feel the substance on the ball."

Then he explained, "Most of the time when the umpires look at the ball, they're looking for seuff marks or dirt on the ball. They're just not looking for a clear substance."

Asked about him meeting with Kuhn, Murcer said, "We had a discussion about the comment I made to the papers in Cleveland. I wasn't told not to discuss the matter. He just said I ought to be a little more discrete in my comments."

"No, I don't think I deserved the fine, but I can't deny the fact that I made the statement."

Do many pitchers throw spitters or greasballs?

"Yes, Perry's not alone in throwing it," Murcer said. "Since he's been in the league, there's been an increasing number of pitchers in the league trying to throw it."

"It looks like it's been legalized. They don't allow us to use an illegal bat. I don't think it's right for a pitcher to use an illegal pitch. Anything illegal should be stopped."

"You got to be lucky to hit that pitch. It's the most difficult pitch in the world to hit. If they legalize it, we'll all be hitting .250."

As an attractive young lady, Miss Baugh was asked how her social life will be affected by the tour.

"Golf is social by itself. All the travel is exciting and fun and I know I'm going to meet a lot of people," said Miss Baugh, "but when I'm playing the next day I want to be in bed by 10 o'clock."

Miss Baugh, who scored the biggest triumph of her amateur career near here in 1971, at the Atlanta Country Club, when she became the youngest person ever to win the U.S. Women's Amateur, plans to play in at least 19 tour events this season, including the next three.

Miss Baugh's plans also include a series of tournaments and clinics in Japan, where she earned her first money as a professional recently.

Laura, who is represented by Mark McCormack, who also represents Arnold Palmer, has several Japanese sponsors, including Rolex, Reknowned Clothes and Suzie B. motorcycles.

She is also sponsored by Colgate and Wilson Sporting Goods in the United States.

Friday, Laura's interest centered only on the second round of the Lady Tara.

"I'm going to celebrate my round today by having some ice cream and going to bed," Laura declared.

SPORTS IN BRIEF

National Basketball Assn. president Walter Kennedy was fired Friday, according to the Philadelphia Daily News.

But according to Kennedy, the story was "absolute rot."

During a break in the NBA owners meeting at Beverly Hills, Kennedy said "this is absolute nonsense." The Philadelphia story said the owners voted 11-6.

"There was no such vote," said Kennedy. "Sam Schulman wasn't even at the meeting."

PROMOTERS for a title fight between George Foreman and Joe (King) Roman said that Foreman has been guaranteed $1 million for the Sept. 1 bout.

But the World Boxing Assn. refused to sanction the fight. A formal request from the Japan Boxing Commission for the sanction was received Friday by William Brennan, chairman of the championship committee of the WBA. "After a lengthy discussion with WBA president Bobby Lee, it was decided the contest would not be in the best interests of boxing at this time, as far as the WBA is concerned," said Brennan.

Foreman said, "We're going over there to defend the title, and the fight is so recognized and so advertised in Japan."

Alexander also urged coaches to reduce the pressure they exert on the players.

Palmer's putter turns sour; Irwin takes lead

CHICAGO (AP) — Arnold Palmer's red-hot putter turned stone cold and former collegiate football star Hale Irwin swept into the second-round lead Friday in the $175,000 Western Open Golf Tournament.

Irwin, an All-Big Eight Conference selection in his collegiate days at Colorado, fashioned a solid, five-under-par 66 and took a two-stroke lead halfway through this old tournament.

Irwin's 133 total was nine-under-par on the compact 6,654-yard Midlothian Country Club course and four in front of the suddenly troubled Palmer.

Australian Bruce Crampton, the season's leading money winner, and a longshot, Rick Massengale, shared second with 135 totals.

Crampton and Massengale, tied with Palmer for the lead at the end of the first 18 holes, each had a 69 in the mild, cloudy weather.

Veteran Billy Casper, winner of the Western the last time it was played at Midlothian, was next with a 69-136.

Palmer was one of four at 137. His 71 Friday included 12 missed putts of 15-feet or less, six of them from inside six feet.

He was tied with Australian Bruce Devlin, rookie Tom Kite, and Richard Crawford. Crawford and Kite matched 67s and Devlin had a 69.

Lee Trevino was six strokes off the pace with a 70-139. Jack Nicklaus, U.S. Open champion Johnny Miller, and Tom Weiskopf are not competing.

"I just couldn't get the damn ball in the hole," the 43-year-old Palmer grumbled. "It was just unbelievable. I could have had a hell of a good round. I should have had about 31 going out and, well, about 31 on the back nine."

But his putter, which conquered the bumpy, spiked-up greens Thursday with 10 one-putts, suddenly quit on him. He three-putted twice, took three from the fringe on another occasion and missed three putts of three feet or less.

Irwin, a 28-year-old who has been a regular on the pro tour for six years, had a very solid effort. "It was an extremely steady round," he said. "It all blended in together pretty well."

He missed only two fairways and one green and didn't have a bogey as he made a bid for his first victory since the 1971 Heritage Classic.

Irwin made a 10-footer for a duce on his second hole, punched short-irons within 18 inches on two other birdie holes and chipped up to six inches for an easy save on the only green he missed on the front nine.

He pulled in front alone with birdies on two of his last three holes, one with an eight-foot putt and the other with a 10-footer on his final hole.

The tight little layout yielded some extremely low scores, but the best was a sparkling, seven-under-par 64 by Leonard Thompson, a second-year pro from Wake Forest. He had a 141 total.

BOLDING UPSETS OLYMPIC TITLIST

ASTERAS, Sweden (AP)—Jim Bolding of the Pacific Coast Club of Long Beach scored a shocking upset Friday by running away from world record holder and Olympic Games champion John Akili-Bua of Uganda in the intermediate hurdles.

Bolding, a graduate of Oklahoma State, was timed in 50.0. Bolding ran from the least desirable outside lane.

Three of his teammates also were winners in the international competition in Sweden.

Steve Smith vaulted 17 feet, 4 3/4 inches, Dwight Stones high jumped 7-2 1/2, and Al Feuerbach hurled the shot 67-8 1/2.

Filbert Bayi of Tanzania, who missed Jim Ryun's 1,500 meter world record by only 1.5 seconds on Thursday, slowed in the last lap Friday and won in 3:40.7, far off the record of 3:33.1.

Leonard Hilton of the PCC was second in 3:44.2.

Bench wins All-Star spot for fifth time

NEW YORK (AP) — Cincinnati's Johnny Bench has locked up his fifth National League All-Star starting catcher's berth in seven years.

Bench, the NL's most valuable player in 1970 and 1972, has been idled lately with a pulled muscle. But that hasn't stopped him from rolling up a commanding lead of 572-229 votes to 101,375 for runner-up Manny Sanguillen of Pittsburgh.

With fan balloting for the July 24 classic at Kansas City ending on July 8, third base appears to be the only position still somewhat in doubt. At that spot, Ron Santo of

Williams signs pro contract

Gary Williams, a recent graduate of Los Alamitos High, signed a professional baseball contract with the Oakland A's Friday.

Williams, a brilliant pitcher against Millikan in the CIF semifinals, was drafted in the 28th round by the A's. Neither Williams nor the club would disclose the bonus but it's reported to be in the vicinity of $50,000.

Williams had been pitching for Hawaiian Gardens in the Connie Mack Coast League. Coach Jim George remarked, "I've just lost my right arm. What do I do now? Punt?"

DENNIS THE MENACE

By Hank Ketchum

I WANNA HELP THE MISSIONARIES! I'M GONNA SEND 'EM ALL MY VEGTABLES FOR A WHOLE YEAR!

YOUR HOROSCOPE by JEANE DIXON

Forecast for Sunday

Your birthday today: Opens one of the most diverse, interesting (as will be seen later) chapters of your life. You are thrust into unforeseen situations time and again until you can cope with almost anything without notice. Today's natives enjoy home life, often succeed under stringent conditions.

Aries (March 21-April 19): All sorts of fresh beginnings are in progress, some of them tentative, all requiring discretion and great care.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): There's enough conflict to provide grist for any mill. Strive to add nothing which would bring strife or rumor.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Stick with simple everyday routines. Getting others to do some of your work entails confusion — do it yourself.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Personal satisfaction comes in you despite a variety of incomplete details. Keep plans uncomplicated, with plenty of leeway.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Major problems are improbable, but keep business dealings for business days. Spend some time in or with organized sports.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Your mind sharpens with interest in today's events. It's unlikely you'll ever forget what happens.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Minding your own affairs becomes a delicate art. Although you won't have a chance to relax, there's fun if you keep it light.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Intense rivalry is apt to develop over almost anything. Take the experience as an opportunity to learn the mechanics of your system.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Early incidents give this interesting day a good start. Keep things rolling — it's time for celebration.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Visitors bring tales and perhaps presents. Be at your tactful best. Listen well in order to avoid dissonance.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Arise in serenity, attend personal projects early, before the crowd. You'll be happy you're prepared.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Right action and adequate results are promised — take advantage of transitory conditions favoring your creative talents.

John Albertoni, 3, of Salinas, got his first look at a dairy farm Friday and it's not likely he'll forget it soon. The youngster, handed an ice cream cone during the tour, wandered too close to an overly-friendly calf with a taste for ice cream. The result, above, was the calf pursuing the cone and John breaking into tears.

Assemblyman seated

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Paul G. Bannai, the third Republican to win an Assembly seat in special elections this month, was seated Friday as the newest member of the California legislature.

Bannai, a former Gardena city councilman, is the Legislature's first member of Japanese extraction.

He was escorted to the front of the Assembly chamber by Assembly

GOP Leader Robert Beverly of Manhattan Beach, officially welcomed by Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, D-Van Nuys, and given a standing ovation.

The party balance in the Assembly now stands at 48 Democrats and 30 Republicans with two vacancies.

Bannai defeated Torrance City Treasurer Tom Ruppert last Tuesday in a special election to fill the vacancy created by the death of Democrat Larry Townsend of Torrance.

Another Assembly GOP winner, San Diego County Supervisor William Craven, won a separate special election Tuesday to fill the seat left vacant by John Stull, a Republican who was elected to the state Senate.

Republican Robert Eclennan of Downey won a special election earlier this month.

Foul brook causes illness

PALM SPRINGS (UPI) — A mountain stream rushing through Indian-owned Tacquit Canyon revealed high human contamination Friday as four more campers joined the list of persons infected this week by a form of dysentery.

The big, boulder-strewn canyon just west of the city was put under strict quarantine by the Riverside County Health Department, and mounted patrols began warning away campers late Thursday night.

Among more than two dozen persons ordered out of Tacquit Canyon were three young men and a teen-age girl who drank from the stream and later were treated at Desert Hospital.

Environmental health director Don Bolling said that somewhere below Tacquit Falls, the swift canyon stream showed "extremely high contamination" from human excrement.

The canyon, owned by the Agua Caliente Indian Tribe, is popular among hikers and young campers.

'Burns, Schreiber' among funniest

By BOB MARTIN
TV-Radio Editor

One of the most entertaining shows I've seen all season was "The Burns and Schreiber Comedy Special," which aired a week ago Friday night on ABC.

It was a preview of a Saturday night comedy-variety series, "The Burns and Schreiber Comedy Hour," which has its premiere from 9 to 10 to tonight on ABC (Channel 7).

The two comedians — Jack Burns and Avery Schreiber — should become major stars if all their shows are as good as the preview. Their comedy sketches displayed originality and considerable cleverness.

Unlike some comics, they are able to change their personalities from one sketch to the next. Last week, they introduced some new continuing characters they've developed, including longtime, somewhat bibulous Irish friends and two monks. Already, they had been known from guest appearances on various shows for their taxi driver-noisy passenger characters.

Jack Klugman and Valerie Harper, guests on the preview, helped out in the sketches in which they appeared. Klugman was great in the sketch in which he (as the father) and Burns (as one son) visited Schreiber (as another son) in his apartment, not knowing the latter was leading a gay life.

Tonight's guests are Juliet Prowse, Martin Landau and the Doobie Brothers.

Jack and Avery should make the summer bright for television viewers.

IN ADDITION to giving us Burns and Schreiber, ABC shifts "The Partridge Family" to 8 p.m. and "The Paul Lynde Show" to 8:30 p.m. Saturdays, beginning tonight.

"The Partridge Family," formerly seen on Friday nights, will continue in the 8 p.m. Saturday slot this fall, facing the tough competition of "All in the Family" and "Emergency!" Paul Lynde's show will not return in the fall, but he will join the cast of "Temperatures Rising."

WITH THE DEATH Thursday of Jane Hoxie, the Independent Press-Telegram lost a very conscientious and able aide. She had prepared the television logs for the daily paper and our Sunday TeleVues magazine for a number of years, and it was the feeling of many that she provided the most up-to-date logs available in the Los Angeles metropolitan area. Mrs. Hoxie also was a good writer and contributed a number of columns over the years.

The funeral service is set for 2:30 p.m. today at Peek Family Colonial Funeral Home in Westminster.

I extend my sympathy to her two daughters, Susan and Sharon Hoxie.

COUNTRY MUSIC will ring out in Long Beach's Recreation Park Sunday

as radio station KFOX celebrates its 15th year as a country music station here. All are invited to and dinner-on-the-ground." The entertainment will be free — just bring a picnic.

Among the entertainers scheduled are Brush Arbor, Bobby Bare, Johnny Bond, Don Bowman, Dorsey Burnette, Johnny Bush, Dave Dudley, Rose Maddox, Johnny Rodriguez, Kenny Surrat, Red Simpson, Hank Thompson, Freddy Weeler, Mac Wiseman, Tex Williams, Danny Mcheals and the Rebel Playboys and Gene Davis and the Star Routers.

"FACESETTERS," a new KTLA (Channel 5) public affairs series to be seen Sundays at 1:30 p.m., starting tomorrow, will have a special preview showing at 8 tonight as host Lin Hilburn welcomes Los Angeles Mayor-elect Tom Bradley as his first guest. The special broadcast will be repeated Sunday at the show's regular time.

The series will be hosted on alternate weeks by Hilburn and Ray and Rea Victor. The Hilburn segments will place emphasis on the black community and the Vietors' segments' on the Mexican-American community.

KNX (1070) will broadcast the sweating-in ceremonies and inaugural message of Mayor Bradley at 1 p.m. Sunday.

HARBOR CHEVROLET

Three nuns were given tickets to a recent baseball game and attended clad in the habit that retained the lofty hoods.

The three men sitting behind them had their vision obscured all during the game, yet made no mention of their displeasure until the bottom half of the ninth inning with the score at 3 to 2 and one man out!

With a resounding crack of the bat, the next player hit a powerful line-drive — only to have the tricky double play that ensued blocked from view completely by the highhooded habits!

The game over, one of the men said lightly, "If this game had been in Pittsburgh, there'd only have been 10% Catholics attending." The second guy — (who'd lost $20 on the game), rasped, "If we'd been in Alaska — there's only 5% Catholics there!" At this, the youngest of the nuns turned and said, "Why don't you go to H-L there aren't any Catholics there!!!"

Could cripple programs Bill to end mandatory student fees criticized

By WALT MURRAY
Staff Writer

Outlawing mandatory student body fees could cripple extracurricular programs at state universities, college officials said Friday.

They said a proposal to make fees voluntary, advocated Tuesday by the chairman of the state's Joint Legislative Audit Committee, could curb traditional athletic and cultural programs as well as those questioned by legislators.

The broadside against mandatory Associated Student body fees was fired by Assemblyman Vincent Thomas, D-San Pedro.

HE CHARGED that student fees—which are $20 per year at LBSU and fund a $530,000 annual budget—were being spent for "questionable" purposes and to benefit "small organized groups of students."

He said that expenditures for LBSU's experimental college, speakers program, child care center, student loans and stipends for student body officers were examples.

Thomas' comments came after the release of an auditor's report on Associated Student expenditures at state universities at Long Beach, San Diego and Chico, commissioned by Thomas' committee. The universities were picked at random, he said.

Thomas supports Assembly Bill 159, currently in the Assembly's education committee, which would outlaw mandatory college fees.

Students presently have the legal right to abolish fees at their individual colleges, although only Sonoma State College has done so.

Stu Farber, LBSU's associate dean of student affairs, said a voluntary fee system could "result in the loss of many of our traditional activities, from concerts to athletics."

"It would probably mean the end to many other student activities in which the student and the college serve the community, such as our EPIC program in which students help youngsters with learning problems."

Farber said that only a small portion of student fees was spent for activities Thomas objected to, adding that many of the objectionable items—such as the speakers program

—benefit thousands of students.

"There's no one program that benefits all students," Farber said. "Thousands of our students never go to a sports event, for instance. Our students are highly diversified in age, maturity, ethnic background and interests."

He said that while only a relatively small group of students could take advantage of the child care center, the women students who use it couldn't go to school without it.

"Another activity that benefits only a few students is our special program to aid handicapped students get through school."

Thomas, in an interview Friday, said only a few students vote in student elections and most students don't know how their money is spent.

Farber said an average 10 per cent of the student body vote in elections, but that "every effort is made to give all students a chance to vote."

"We do better than a lot of school districts I know of that only get a 3 or 4 per cent turnout," he said.

Farber said that the Associated Students spends its money with the same safeguards as any corporation and that university administrators sit on the student financial committee. The college president has final veto power.

Expenditures—and particularly controversial ones, such as a recent allocation to send a delegation to the funeral of a student burglary suspect shot by police—get wide debate in the student senate and campus newspaper, he said.

Thomas said he was not charging that any of the expenditures violated the regulations that the state universities' Board of Trustees has placed on the Associated Students.

But he said that the regulations were too permissive and should be changed.

Sen. George Deukmejian, R-Long Beach, also a member of the Joint Legislative Audit Committee, said that he also was unhappy with some of the ways the students spend their money.

BUT HE said he was satisfied with the present method of collecting student body fees as long as "the entire student body does have an absolute opportunity to elect who represents them and spends their money."

Thomas said that if enough money were not forthcoming from voluntary fees to pay for traditional college activities such as athletics and cultural programs, "state funds could be used to support these activities."

"The students should have the right to spend their money as they see fit, so long as they stay within the law," Farber said.

Bids submitted for L.B. Civic Center

By DON BRACKENBURY
Staff Writer

An apparent low bid of $24.2 million for construction of the proposed Long Beach City Hall-Main Library in the downtown Civic Center was submitted Friday by a joint venture of Donovan Construction Co. of Santa Ana and C. V. Holder, Inc., of Gardena.

Later in the day, Donovan-Holder sent the city manager's office a telegram saying that they had made a $1-million error in their computations, and asking for permission to withdraw the bid.

If the request is approved, the apparent low bidder would be M.R. Fischer, Los Angeles, who offered to construct the project for $25,050,000. The other four bids received were in excess of $25 million.

The telegram from Donovan-Holder was referred to the city attorney's office.

Because the City Hall-Main Library will be financed from bonds issued by the Long Beach-Los Angeles County Civic Center Authority, the contract will not be awarded until after the sale of bonds.

City Manager John R. Mansell said the city anticipates that construction will start in September, and that the two buildings will be ready for occupancy by the fall of 1975.

The two-story Main Library, which will have 135,000 square feet of space, will be built at the northwest corner of Pacific Avenue and Ocean Boulevard. The present Main Library, which basically has been closed since being heavily damaged by a fire a year ago, will be demolished to clear the site for the new structure.

The new City Hall will be a 14-story tower, with an adjoining one-story wing in which will be located offices drawing the most public use. The City Council chambers will be on the ground floor of the tower.

City plans also call for the creation of a "superblock" Civic Center by the closing of Chestnut and Cedar avenues between Broadway and Ocean Boulevard.

The city will retain Lincoln Park by landscaping atop the Main Library and the one-story section of City Hall, as well as by planting in the areas now occupied by Cedar and Chestnut avenues.

Councilmen also have approved in principle the construction of a new Museum of Art within the Civic Center, in the area north of the proposed new City Hall, but this will be done under a separate contract.

Recreation panel reelects

Mrs. Mary Butler, a member of the Long Beach Recreation Commission for three years, has been re-elected to a second consecutive term as president of the advisory body.

Mrs. Virginia Cone was re-elected vice president. Mrs. Butler is active with the Poly High Interracial Committee.

Catalina projects to be considered

By KRIS DULANEY
Staff Writer

Public hearings on 31 construction projects, including two multi-million dollar developments on Catalina Island, will be conducted Monday by the South Coast Regional Zone Conservation Commission.

The commission will convene at 9 a.m. in the Long Beach Harbor Department's board room, 925 Harbor Plaza Drive.

Among items to be considered are two permit applications from Sol Vista Homes, Inc., which plans to construct a total of 123 townhouse and condominium units in the City of Avalon, Catalina Island.

The first application seeks permission for the construction of 48, two-story townhouse units and a recreation center at the intersection of Cemetery, Country Club and Falls Canyon Roads.

A company spokesman said the townhouses, part of the "Sixteenth Fairway Development," will sell from $37,800 to $44,700.

The spokesman said the company's second application was for the construction of 75, two-story condominium units and recreation center at Wrigley Road and Beacon Street, Avalon.

When completed, those units will sell from $20,000 to $26,000, added the spokesman.

Other area projects to be considered by the commission Monday include:

— Maintenance work on an existing pipeline system at Long Beach Harbor from West Channel to Pico Boulevard, by Mobil Oil Corporation;

— Construction of an eight-unit condominium at 2334 Palos Verdes Drive West, Palos Verdes, by Lunada Bay Company;

— Construction of Cabrillo Marine Museum on Stephen White Drive, Cabrillo Beach, by the City of Los Angeles;

— Construction of a five-unit apartment building at 35th Street and Peck Avenue, San Pedro, by Anthony Jabuka; — And, construction of nine single-family dwellings on Coastline Drive.

In accordance with the provisions of the Coastal Conservation Act, public hearings must be held on most proposed construction projects before the regional commission can grant or deny a developer permission to build in the coastal zone.

Accomplice in shooting jailed

A 20-year-old Long Beach man Friday was sentenced to county jail for a year and put on probation for five years for aiding and abetting the shotgunning of Joseph Duhem, former Signal Hill police officer and professional baseball player.

Long Beach Superior Court Judge Pat Mullendore, who sentenced Harry Lee Rilling, Jr., ordered that conditions of probation include payment of at least half of the medical expenses incurred by Duhem as a result of the Feb. 26 assault.

Duhem was struck in the face by a blast from a shotgun fired by a 17-year-old youth. The shooting occurred in the doorway of the Executive Suite Restaurant, 3400 E. Pacific Coast Highway, a block down the street from the tavern operated by Duhem.

Dep. Probation Officer William S. Hull told the court that Duhem has lost the sight in one eye and faces medical costs of $9,000 to $10,000.

Rilling, of 1065 Belmont Ave., had pleaded guilty to being an accessory to the shooting. He said he drove the 17-year-old youth back to the restaurant after an altercation there some hours earlier.

The 17-year-old triggerman was sentenced by Juvenile Court to a term in a California Youth Authority facility.

Mullendore also found Rilling in violation of probation for a burglary conviction. He placed the defendant on five years probation for that offense, the probation to run concurrently with the probation in the Duhem assault.

'Missing' youth gets far on $1

While Mrs. Robert Leslie was frantic with worry about him, her "missing" son, 11-year-old David Bay was in the mountains enjoying fresh-cooked trout.

David left his home at 11853 E. 167th St., Artesia, Friday, June 22, at 6 a.m., telling his mother he was going to the beach with a friend and would be home by evening. Mrs. Leslie gave him a dollar and sent him off.

That was the last she saw of him until David walked in the door at 5 p.m. Thursday.

The boy told his mother that instead of going to the beach, he and a friend, Bob Seeley, 16, had gone to the mountains to fish. He said he didn't know he was missing, that he had tried several times to telephone his parents and neighbors but nobody answered.

"He sure went a long way on one dollar," Mrs. Leslie said, laughing for the first time in a week.

Peace Corps, VISTA seeking 700 in L.B.

ACTION, the federally-administered citizens service corps, will celebrate its second anniversary Sunday with the start of a three-week campaign to find 700 Peace Corps and VISTA volunteers in the Long Beach area, according to Southern California manager Gene Tackett.

Designated as "21 Days of ACTION," the event is the first major effort by the agency to recruit professional volunteers, skilled tradesmen and college seniors to fulfill 540 categories of overseas projects in 60 developing countries and throughout low-income communities in the United States, Tackett said.

Job skills requested for Peace Corps and VISTA assignments include lawyers, nurses, architects, civil engineers, businessmen, math and science teachers, liberal arts graduates, gasoline and diesel mechanics, construction specialists and plumbers.

"We are emphasizing renewed ACTION interest in older and retired persons with high experience levels and practical work backgrounds. Basic qualifications include good health, a minimum age of 20 and U.S. citizenship," Tackett said.

He said that "ACTION volunteers work full-time for a year or two, others only a few hours a week. They represent every ethnic and skill background. They share a common bond of wanting to share their skills with others."

ACTION was founded in 1971 as an "alliance of generations" to help people help themselves, Tackett said. ACTION includes the Foster Grandparents Program, RSVP (Retired Senior Volunteer Program), SCORE (Service Corps of Retired Executives), ACE (Active Corps of Executives), UYA (University Year for Action), VISTA (Volunteers in Service To America) and the Peace Corps.

Tackett noted that the ACTION area office, located at 1333 Westwood Blvd., Los Angeles, has processed more than 3,300 applications since July 1972, a 50 per cent increase over the previous year.

L.B. urologist tells kidney-saving plan

By BEN ZINSER
Medical-Science Editor

A simple operation to curtail chronic urinary tract infection and prevent serious kidney damage in young children was described by a Long Beach urologist Friday at a medical meeting in Honolulu.

Dr. R. Darrell Cannon, speaking at the 49th annual meeting of the western section of the American Urological Association, said the operation proved highly successful for most of 22 children who underwent the procedure.

The operation is known as the Lich, named for its developer, Dr. Robert Lich Jr. of Louisville. Urologists say the procedure can save kidneys from eventual destruction by intermittent urinary tract infections.

The procedure reverses a phenomenon known as vesicoureteral reflux — a back flow of urine into the kidney. The condition may lead to pyelonephritis, a kidney infection.

The operation corrects an inefficient valve-like effect of the ureter, one of the two tubes that carry urine from the kidneys to the urinary bladder, a reservoir for urine.

Dr. Cannon said that when the ureter functions inefficiently, there's not only a backup of urine into the kidney but also creation of a residual amount of urine in the bladder. Recurrent bladder infection is the result.

The danger is that this reflux condition will enable a bladder infection to ascend to the kidneys and cause damage.

The Lich operation, Dr. Cannon said, is performed without the necessity of cutting into the interior of the bladder. An incision is made in the patient's abdomen to gain access to the bladder. A three-fourths inch trough is then created in the bladder muscle starting at the junction of the ureter and the bladder. The ureter is laid in the trough and the area sewed up so that the ureter enters the bladder at an oblique angle.

The oblique angle, Dr. Cannon explained, creates a valve-like effect, to resist backflow and thus correct the reflux condition.

In short, the ureter is reimplanted in the bladder, but the surgeon does not have to cut into the interior of the bladder.

Hospitalization is consequently shorter than that from other operations to correct the condition, Dr. Cannon said.

Patients stay in the hospital four to 11 days, usually about six, when the Lich procedure is performed. With another type of operation, the Politano-Leadbetter, the range of hospital stay may go as high as 26 days, Dr. Cannon said.

Sixteen of the children who underwent the Lich operation no longer have symptoms or require medication. Four others are improved but still require medication at times, Dr. Cannon reported. The progress of some of the children has been followed for as long as six years after the operation.

Co-author of Dr. Cannon's presentation was another Long Beach urologist, Dr. Neil O. Chamberlain.

Earl Wilson John Gavin bares phobia

NEW YORK — John Gavin, the handsome Hollywoodian, declined to pose naked for the most unusual reason given yet. "I was afraid," he says, "I might be impeached."

He and Richard Nixon have something in common. They're both presidents. As president of the Screen Actors Guild, Gavin felt that being a center-spread nude for a woman's magazine would be "demeaning," and anyway, he says, "It's not my style."

"I didn't want to be exploited by some female chauvinists," he adds. "It wouldn't have been right for the president of SAG."

The invitation came just as he was taking over as singing-dancing lead in "Seesaw" opposite Michele Lee, replacing Ken Howard.

"I giggled when I heard they'd asked me," Gavin says. "I wouldn't do it even if I'd thought it would do for me what it did for what's-his-name... Burt Reynolds."

"My colleagues have to do some very demeaning things as it is and I resent

For the head of the Screen Actors Guild to be making his stage debut on B'way—is that an indication of something dire?

"You mean that I'm not working in my own jurisdiction but in the jurisdiction of another union—Actors Equity?" he says.

"The point is, I'm acting. Henry Fonda goes back and forth, so does Kirk Douglas, so does Charlton Heston. I'd much rather do this show than 90 per cent of the movie scripts I've done."

It's logical for him to be here, because $60 million worth of commercials are made yearly (compared to $30 million in movies and $40 million in TV films) and 75 per cent of the commercials are made in or from New York.
